New Ag Program In '64?

Freeman Will Talk To Farmers

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington (AP) — There is speculation in farm and legislative circles here that the Kennedy administration will come up with a new farm program next year to replace the tight supply-control proposals they have failed to sell.

This goal is seen by some farm and political leaders as the purpose behind 13 rural "report and review" meetings Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has scheduled for farming areas during the later summer and fall.

In announcing these meetings, Freeman said he wants to "listen to what farmers are saying and thinking, and to find out what individual attitudes are toward the way programs are being administered, toward farm legislation, and toward the Dept. of Agriculture."

New programs are being discussed for cotton, dairy products, wheat and a new extension of feed grain programs. In addition, ways are being sought to put more pep into a Rural Areas Development program designed to help rural communities develop non-farm employment opportunities.

Some farm leaders believe the administration will come forward with a program recommending broader use of the voluntary mechanism. They contend that Freeman, in taking a pulse of farmer thinking, can come up with no other conclusion than that commercial farmers want a minimum of federal regulation.

This contention is based on the facts that producers, voting last year and this, soundly defeated rigid control proposals for turkeys and wheat and that many congressmen from farm states are themselves opposed to rigid controls.

The administration is faced with a necessity of revamping its agricultural thinking because of unsolved farm problems and also because next year Kennedy will be seeking re-election.

Agents Seize Cocaine Valued At $2 Million

Miami (UPI) — Federal and State narcotics agents climaxed a two-month undercover operation Saturday when they seized 10.8 pounds of cocaine with a black market value estimated at $2 million.

Agents arrested three Cuban exiles and were seeking another in connection with the case, described by agents as "one of the biggest hauls in the nation."

Arrested were Frolin Narona, 35, Ramon "Mungo" Diaz and his son, Orestes "Pouchi" Diaz. All were charged with violating narcotics laws.

Five—Plus Five—Equals Houseful

Five of the now 10 Fischer family children read news account of quintuplets born to their mother. Reading are: (from left) Danny, Evelyn, Julie, Denise and Charlotte.

It's Jim and M-M-Mary

Aberdeen, S.D. (UPI)—The Fischer quintuplets have been baptized and confirmed in the Roman Catholic faith.

The ceremony took place in the third floor nursery of St. Luke's Hospital here some 12 hours after birth. Other mothers from the maternity ward watched through a glass window.

The premature children of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, with each hour of life, lengthened their chances of becoming the first quintuplets ever born in the United States to survive.

Although the odds against quintuplet births are 54 million to one, according to the American Medical Association, it was the second time in a week that the phenomenom had occurred in the western hemisphere. Last Sunday, quintuplet boys were born in Maracaibo, Venezuela, to a 34-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Ines Cuervo de Pierto.

4 Mary's 1 James

The Roman Catholic Bishop of Sioux Falls, S.D., the Most Rev. Lambert Hoch, flew to this prairie cattle town near the North Dakota border to christen and confirm the infants. He baptized each of the four girls "Mary" and the boy "James Andrew."

Bishop Hoch said confirmation ordinarily takes place when a child is about 7 but it can be done earlier, with a bishop's authorization, when there is danger of death.

James and the four Marys squirmed and kicked in their isolettes—individual incubators—as the Bishop annointed them. Andy Fischer, 38, a $76-a-week shipping clerk, stood beside them. Mrs. Fischer, 30, lay in her private room 45 yards away from the nursery.

The parents, who have five other children, said they would pick middle names for the girls later.

"Oh, thank God it's over," Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer, 30, told her husband.

"I don't know how it will be financially, but through God's will we will be able to take care of them," Andy Fischer said.

Keeping Life

While the parents looked into the future, the full resources of St. Luke's hospital, a 235-bed Catholic institution, were devoted to keeping life in the 3½-pound, 18-inch youngsters, born six to eight weeks prematurely.

The children had not received their first meal before the baptism and no positive decision had been made on when they would be fed.

Dr. James Berbos, 40, the family doctor who brought the quints into the world, said "these are fine babies. As far as I know they're going to be all right."

But he added the warning "the greatest danger involved is prematurity itself. There is a danger of membrane disease"—the maladay common to "preems" which claimed the life of President and Mrs. Kennedy's premature son last month.

National Event

The birth of the Fischer quintuplets became a national event within hours.

President and Mrs. Kennedy, along with South Dakota's two senators and governor, sent glowing telegrams of congratulations. The people of Aberdeen took the quints to their hearts and the telephone jangled with the calls of proud South Dakotans who just wanted to send their best wishes. Merchants chimed in with offers of free layettes and other necessities for the babies.

Before the baptism, Fischer paid a visit to his wife. He was accompanied briefly by a lawyer, Joseph H. Barnett of Aberdeen. Barnett's presence was an indication that the parents were already aware of the publicity and pressures in store for them as the parents of the nation's only living quints.

The Fischers learned Wednesday that they were due to be parents of quintuplets. St. Luke's hospital said at first the fact had been kept secret from the mother, but Dr. Berbos confirmed that he had located the quints through x-rays and had told both parents.

They were natural births, achieved without the aid of anesthetics. Mrs. Fischer saw her babies within moments after their birth.

Quints Great Surprise To Great-Grandmother

By DUANE SNODGRASS

Several weeks ago, Mrs. Mary Schroeder of 4801 Pioneers Blvd. started making a small quilt for an expected great-grandchild in Aberdeen, S. D.

Saturday, she upped her plans to five quilts.

Mrs. Schroeder's granddaughter, Mrs. Andrew (Mary Ann) Fischer gave birth to quintuplets in Aberdeen's St. Luke's Hospital Saturday.

"I'd heard Mary Ann was expecting a baby in November, so I thought I'd make a quilt for it. But now — land sakes. I don't know what to say. Other than that I've got five quilts to get to work on now," Mrs. Schroeder, 80, said Saturday night.

She searched carefully for the right words to express how it feels to have quintuplets for grandchildren:

"Well, it's wonderful. I can hardly believe it. I pray so hard that they'll all live and all be well. Their mother is so nice. If she had 25, I'd love them all the same!"

How did Mrs. Schroeder learn of the famous births?

"I was walking home from church this afternoon with Mrs. G. J. Van Allen (of 4441 So. 49th) and she asked if I'd read in The Journal about that woman in South Dakota giving birth to quintuplets.

"I told her I hadn't, and asked her where it was, since I have many relatives in South Dakota. Mrs. Van Allen said she didn't remember. Then, just in conversation, I told her I had a granddaughter in Aberdeen whose name was Mary Ann Fischer.

"Shortly after I got home, Mrs. Van Allen called me and said, 'Mrs. Schroeder, that was your granddaughter who had all those babies.' I was so shocked, I went out and bought 3 copies of The Journal."

Later, Mrs. Schroeder's daughter — Mary Ann's mother — Mrs. Elmer (Evelyn) Brady of Hecla, S.D., called Mrs. Schroeder and asked if she'd heard the news.

"My, you ought to be here. There are newsmen and photographers all over the place," Mrs. Schroeder excitedly replied.

U.S. Units In Vietnam Bickering

Civilians Want Diem Replaced

Saigon, South Vietnam (UPI)—The various U.S. civilian and military missions to South Vietnam are so badly divided over what to do about the Ngo family and the conduct of the war against the Communists that Washington has intervened, it was reported Saturday.

Informed sources said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had been advised to end the dissension.

Some civilian agencies were convinced the war against the Communist Viet Cong cannot be won unless the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem is replaced with a more liberal group that can win the support of the whole population.

Other civilian agencies were challenging the accuracy of the optimistic reports to Washington from U.S. military assistance command headquarters here that the war is going well despite sharp deterioration of the political situation.

Astronauts Will Log 2,000 Orbit Hours Before Moon Flight

Earliest Shot Date Is '68

Washington (UPI) — The American astronaut team will spend the equivalent of almost three months in weightless space flight around the earth before the epic U.S. try for a landing on the moon is made, a space agency official said Saturday.

The 2,000 hours of orbital experience demonstrates the tremendous workload yet ahead for spacemen before a three-man Apollo team is shot toward the moon. There are hopes the attempt will be made in as little as five years, but it might not come until almost 1970.

President Kennedy has set a goal of an American landing on the moon in this decade. Space officials have expressed the belief that, barring major setbacks, an attempt might be made by 1968.

In outlining generally the extensive preliminary flights leading to the lunar shot,; an official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Saturday mentioned "late in this decade" as the possible time for the Apollo shot.

Addison M. Rothrock, associate director of plans and programs evaluation for NASA, said by the time the moon shot comes, the United States will have accumulated about 2,000 hours of manned flight in orbit.

Four Flights

So far, in four flights, American astronauts have been in orbit less than 53½ hours. More than 34 hours of this was compiled by L. Gordon Cooper in his 22.9-orbit flight last May 15-16.

Rothrock said the 2,000 hours in space flight would include about 1,300 orbits. The total so far by four Americans who circled the globe in space is 34.9 orbits.

This means that the two-man Gemini and three-man Apollo flights — the advanced successor programs to now-ended Mercury — will entail about 81 days of orbital flight.

Rothrock did not go into specifics about the forthcoming flights — the first of which is not expected until at least late next year as part of Gemini. But he said they would include rendezvous of spacecraft in orbit, transfer of men and materials from one vehicle to another and "space maneuvers."

Astronauts Overruled

Project Mercury, America's pioneer space exploration program, ended with the Cooper shot despite protests from the original seven astronauts and some other officials of NASA. They insisted that at least one more one-man flight was needed to perfect re-entry processes and to answer other questions about the effects of space travel on humans. They were overruled by higher brass even after taking their case to the President.

The Apollo moon landing plan as of now is to send three men to the vicinity of the moon, with a smaller craft detaching from the mother ship for a landing and then returning to the orbiting main vehicle.

The Soviet Union, U.S. officials insist, is still just as determined as ever to get to the moon ahead of America, despite contentions to the contrary by British scientist Bernard Lovell who recently met with Soviet counterparts.

The Soviet Union has a wide lead over the United States in space flight. Four of the six individual Soviet orbital flights have far exceeded the total of all four of the American shots.

Red China 'In Trouble'

Washington (UPI) — Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo said Saturday the Communist Chinese are at their "weakest moment" since seizing power 14 years ago—and Nationalists hopes for a return to the mainland are at their highest.

Chiang, head of the Free China security forces and possible successor to his father, President Chiang Kai-shek, said the Reds talk most when thier crisis is highest.

During his stay here, Chiang has predicted that Nationalist raids on the mainland would be stepped up.

85 Votes Expected For Ban

13 Against, 7 Undecided

Washington (UPI) — President Kennedy's campaign to produce the "widest possible" support for the nuclear test ban treaty has held opposition to ratification to a hard core of 13 votes to date, a survey showed Saturday.

Senate Democratic whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., said he is now hopeful the treaty will get 85 votes for ratification, with no more than 15 opposed — if all but ailing Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., are present. Engle's position in support of the treaty already has been announced.

The most significant development in this week's historic "great debate" over the pact barring all but underground nuclear tests was two-fold:

—Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson's reluctant but decisive announcement that he will support the treaty.

—A breakthrough in the ranks of senior southerners. Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Senate agriculture chairman and a frequent visitor to the Soviet Union, called for treaty ratification. Ellender's declaration was followed Saturday by a pro-treaty announcement from Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., another southern conservative.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., scheduled an early session Monday to resume debate on the treaty. He served notice that the Senate will "come in early and stay late" throughout next week in an effort to reach a final vote.

'No' Votes

The 13 considered by the leadership on both sides as certain to vote against ratification include eight Democrats and five Republicans. they are:

Democrats—Harry F. Byrd, Va., Robert C. Byrd, W. Va., James O. Eastland, Miss.; Long of La.; A. Willis Robertson, Va., Russell of Ga.; Stennis of Miss. and Strom Thurmond, S.C.

Republicans — Wallace F. Bennett, Utah; Carl T. Curtis, Neb.,. Barry Goldwater, Ariz.; Milward L. Simpson, Wyo. and John G. Tower, Texas.

Uncertain

Those on the uncertain list are Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C.; Len B. Jordan, R-Ida; John L. McClellan, D-Ark.; Edwin L. Mechem, R-N.M.; Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine.

Typical of the undecided group was Ervin, who commented:

"I am still wrestling with my conscience. This is the hardest decision I have ever had to make."

In a poll of 40,000 Wisconsin residents made public Saturday, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., announced that the treaty won support by a 4 to 1 margin — with all parts of the state favoring the test ban pact and support indicated from Republicans and Democrats alike.

Dr. Conant Report

Free Education for Teachers Backed

Washington (AP)—Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard and an influential commentator on U.S. education, proposes in a new book that America's brightest high school graduates be given a free college education if they become teachers in the public schools.

Conant said each state should provide a program of all-expense loans for high school graduates who plan to become teachers and who are in the top 30% of their graduating class.

Conant . . . suggestions

The loans, Conant said, should be cancelled after four or five years of teaching in the public schools of that state. He did not specify terms of repayment for those who went into another field or left the state.

This was one of the 27 proposals on the recruitment, preparation and certification of teachers outlined by Conant in his latest book, "The Education of American Teachers."

The book follows a two-year study that took Conant and his staff to 77 campuses in 22 states. Conant also has written best-selling books on the American high school and junior high school, and was chairman of a national conference which produced a controversial booklet on the teaching of reading.

Unlike his earlier reports on education, which were directed to local school boards and parents, this one is addressed to the 1,150 colleges and universities which presently prepare teachers.

The average reader consequently may find it tough slogging through the long and detailed discussions of state requirements for teacher certification, and the never-ending war between academic professors and the professors of education.

But Conant comes through loud and clear in the concluding chapter which sums up his proposals, some of which seem certain to stir debate among those charged with training the nation's future teachers.

He suggests, for example, that the present complex and unwieldy steps toward teacher certification should be reduced to just three requirements:

1. A baccalaureate degree from "a legitimate college or university."

2. Evidence of participation in a state-approved practice teaching program.

3. A certificate from the college or university attesting that the institution considers the recipient adequately prepared to teach in a designated field or grade level.

This would permit the institutions to devise their own programs of teacher education, free from state requirements of a specified number of courses in such subjects as methods of teaching, child psychology, child growth and development, history of education, etc.

"Conant does not recommend that these courses be abolished, only that each institution be free to chart its own path.

"The Education of American Teachers" may also be criticized because Conant does not deal with some of the major problems of teacher education today. These would include the special preparation needed by teachers in big city slums, guidance counselors, curriculum specialists, teachers of the mentally retarded and physically handicapped, and teachers in vo for the elementary schools.

Other conant proposals include:

—There should be a large jump in salary when a teacher moves out of probationary status.

—Salary increases should be based on formal work toward an advanced degree, not on casual courses taken in summer school, or in off-duty hours.

—School boards or the state should provide leaves of absence with salary for a full-time semester residence at a university to enable teachers to study toward a master's degree.

—If small colleges cannot afford to hire three or four professors devoting their time to elementary education, they should cease attempting to prepare teachers for the elementary schools.

Car Kills 3 Children In Denver

Denver (AP)—An automobile involved in an intersection collision flipped and rolled into a ditch where a group of children were playing, killing three and injuring one other critically.

The accident was caused by a boy too young to drive legally, police said. His car sped through a stop sign and struck another car broadside, flipping it into the ditch.

The dead were Richard Ramirez, 5, his half-sister Alice Trujillo, 12, and Debbie Marrujo, 4.

Debbie's brother George, 5, was taken to a hospital in critical condition.

Police said the car which ran a stop sign was driven by Thomas Martinez, 15, of Denver.

The youth jumped from the car following the collision and ran to his home nearby, leaving two passengers inside the auto.

One of the passengers, Elmer Martinez, 28, a cousin of the driver, took officers to the youth's home. He was taken back by the bodies but "he refused to look—he put his hands over his face," an officer said.

The Martinez vehicle struck a car driven by Thomas K. Rogic, 37, which flipped, rolling into the ditch 10 feet

Goldwater, Rockefeller Running Neck and Neck Among All Voters

By GEORGE GALLUP

Princeton, N.J. — When a representative sample of all voters of the nation — Republicans, Democrats, and Independents — are asked to state their choice between the two GOP front-runners, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, the result is a dead even race.

Gallup Poll

The first objective of any GOP presidential hopeful obviously must be to win the nomination of the Republican party. In this respect, Goldwater continues to have a substantial lead over Rockefeller at present.

But to win a presidential election after capturing the nomination, a GOP candidate must make an increasingly powerful appeal to Independent voters, and to at least some Democratic voters.

When voters are asked to state their party preferences, nearly half claim to be Democrats, only slightly more than one fourth give the Republican Party as their preference, and only slightly more than one fourth say they are Independents.

In short, the Republicans are so much a minority party today that only by winning large numbers of Independents and Democrats do they have a good chance to win in a straight-out party fight.

The following question was put to all voters (those who claim to have voted in presidential elections):

"Suppose the choice for President in the Republican convention in 1964 narrows down to Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller, which one would you prefer to have the Republican convention select?" The results:

Republicans Only
Prefer Goldwater	59%
Prefer Rockefeller ..	41
Independents Only
Prefer Goldwater ...	56%
Prefer Rockefeller ...	44
Democrats Only
Prefer Goldwater	42%
Prefer Rockefeller ..	58

When the views of all voters — Democrats, Republicans, and Independents alike — are taken into consideration, the result is:

All Voters
Prefer Rockefeller	50

It should be noted that persons interviewed in this survey were asked to choose between just the two front-runners. People favoring Governor Romney or Governor Scranton, for example, stated their preference for either Goldwater or Rockefeller if there were a convention "show-down" between these two men.

'Non-Political' Trip Has Campaign Flavor

Newport, R. I. (UPI)—Democratic senators are running for re-election in 9 of the 11 states President Kennedy will visit on an inspection tour later this month, but the White House insisted Saturday the trip is "non-political."

Kennedy will embark Sept. 24 on a five-day transcontinental tour of conservation projects and scenic wonders. He was invited to make the trip by the senators involved in the election campaign.

The whirlwind 10,000-mile journey will have all of the intense pace and much of the flavor of campaign travel. But the President plans to savor some of the rustic life he will be seeing and will spend one night in a log cabin in California's Lassen Volcanic National Park.

Democratic senators face 1964 re-election in these nine states Kennedy will visit — Wisconsin, North Dakota, Wyoming, Montana, Utah, Nevada, California, Minnesota and Washington. He also will go to Pennsylvania, where Republican Sen. Hugh Scott's seat will be sought by a Democrat, and Oregon, where there will be no Senate contest next year.

Acting White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said Kennedy had been invited to each of the states by Democratic Senators, except Pennsylvania where Interior Secretary Stewart Udall extended the invitation.

But Hatcher added:

"I don't think the trip was determined by whether a senator is up for re-election. As you can see, this is an inspection and observation tour of national parks, recreation areas, conservation, reclamation and water resource projects."

10,000 March For Housing In Gary, Ind.

Gary, Ind. (UPI) — An estimated 10,000 persons marched on city hall Saturday to protest alleged housing segregation in the steel city.

Speech-making, including a talk by Negro comedian Dick Gregory, followed a shoulder-to-shoulder parade by an estimated 7,500 demonstrators that stretched for 1½ miles through the business district.

The demonstration was the largest, and according to police the most orderly of three recent demonstrations in Gary.

Republican Governors Talk Taxes, Politics

Denver (AP) — Republican governors of the nation called Saturday for a cut in federal income taxes coupled with action to hold federal spending at present levels.

The call came in the first policy statement issued by the new Republican Governors Association, which held a one-day meeting in Denver.

Although the official discussions, which took place behind closed doors, were limited to issues, informal discussions around the meeting centered on presidential candidates. Also considered was the rise of extreme right wing elements.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, at a news conference, said he considered groups seeking an end to federal income taxes as a menace to the country because repeal of taxes would remove revenue necessary to preserve the nation in its struggle against Communism.

He singled out the new national chairman of the Young Republicans, Donald Lukens of Washington, D.C., as one of those advocating elimination of the income tax and called it "unrealistic and extremely dangerous."

Rockefeller also stressed danger can come through left wing groups, saying that domination by them could lead to a Communist takeover.

He did not name any specific groups.

A note of optimism about GOP chances pervaded the meeting. Rockefeller called the outlook for election of a Republican president in 1964 bright.

National Chairman William Miller admonished the governors to tell voters in their states that conservation projects which President Kennedy will visit during his western swing were initiated in former President Dwight Eisenhower's administration.

Quintuplets' Father Shocked and Tired

By ANDREW FISCHER
As told to United Press International

Aberdeen, S.D. (UPI)—Well, I've never been so shocked in my life. I just don't know what to think.

You never expect something like this to happen so close to you. And when it does, you just can't think.

I'd sure like to get some rest though. I've been up since 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

I think the doctor (James Berbos) was the most thrilled person of all. He was really excited. He told me that I was going to have five children Wednesday afternoon, and my wife didn't find out until about 10:00 that night.

I had been down to the hospital earlier last night. I came home and was just ready to go to bed when the phone rang. It was the hospital and they told me I'd better get down there right away.

This was about 1:45 a.m.

I came home because I've got to milk my two cows. They've got to be milked in the morning and the evening.

My wife couldn't believe it. She's really happy about it though. I've never seen her so surprised as when she found out about it.

That place (hospital) was really buzzin' down there. Phones were ringin' and everything. And I'll bet there sure was a lot of coffee drank last night. Those nurses were tickled pink. Everyone was runnin' around.

You just don't expect something like that to happen around here.

Mrs. Fischer . . . now a famous mother

Tenth Set Of Quints Born in U.S.

Chicago (UPI)—The quintuplets born to Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer are a one in 54 million phenomena, the American Medical Assn. library indicates.

Records showed that the Fischer quints are at least the 10th such set born in the United States since 1775. The survival record for such children in this country is three weeks.

The World Alamanc lists eight such sets born in this country, but medical personnel in southern cities said they knew of two other such births.

The world's first quintuplets to reach maturity were the five daughters born May 28, 1934, to Mrs. Oliva Dionne at Callander, Ont. One of the girls died Aug. 6, 1954. The rest survive.

The oldest set of quintuplets known to survive in the world are the Diligenti quints, three girls and two boys born July 15, 1943, in Argentina, to the wife of a millionaire.

Census Set

Lagos (AP) — Nigeria will try again Nov. 4-8 to make an accurate count of its population, estimated at 40 million.

Fischer's First 5 Happy

Aberdeen, S.D. (UPI) — "There are five of us kids and there are five of the new kids and that means one for each of us."

Thus spoke 5-year-old Julie Fischer when informed of the birth of her four new sisters and one new brother.

It was perhaps the longest sentence anybody uttered in the old farm house 2½ miles west of town which will be home for the quintuplets.

"We're all going a little bit crazy," said Mrs. Eleanor Heintzman, friend of Mrs. Fischer and chief coordinator of all and various activities that went on Saturday in the old house.

"These other children — they're so excited," Mrs. Heintzman said. "But they're all good kids. I don't know what I'd do if they weren't."

She was referring to Julie, 5; Charlotte, 6, and Danny, 7. They sat on the floor in the living room watching cartoons on television. Two other Fischer tots—Evelyn, 4, and Denise, 3—were in Hecla, visiting their grandparents.

Danny, when he learned of the quints, perhaps greeted the news more enthusiastically than any of the other children. Surrounded as he has been for years by girls, he shouted: "I wanted a brother and I got one' "

"The phone's been ringing from all over—Canada, Mexico, New York, Chicago. I guess this is just about the busiest number in town" said Mrs. Heintzman. "When I hang up it rings again."

The head of the house, tall, crew-cut Andrew Fischer, wasn't in to any of the callers. "He's almost exhausted," said Mrs. Heintzman. "He got up at five o'clock Friday and he hasn't had any sleep since then."

Fischer, 38, is a shipping clerk for a wholesale grocer here. He was born in Linton, N.D., and grew up in Eagle Butte, S.D., about 180 miles west of here.

Mrs. Fischer also is a native of these wind-swept plains. She was born Mary Ann Brady, daughter of a farmer, and lived near Hecla, S.D. She and "Andy" were married May 14, 1955. Fischer has been employed by the Nash-Finch company 18 years.

Fischer didn't think five more children would spoil things a bit.

"I think kids bring the family together," he said. "I wouldn't discourage anyone from having children." But he added, "I don't think we're going to have any more. Not for a while, anyway."

Fischer wasn't dismayed at prospect of taking care of five babies at one time. The important thing, he said, was to get them home from the hospital as soon as possible.

"There hasn't been any history of twins in either side of the family," Mrs. Heintzman said, "But I guess they've made up for lost time with the quints."

Fischer moved to the farm house because it had a great deal of space for the kind of money he had. There are five bedrooms upstairs and there are five rooms downstairs. The house faces a blacktop road. Across the road is a construction firm and a great deal of farm land.

"Nobody knows how old this house is," said Mrs. Heintzman. "But I can tell you this: It's cold. The wind sure comes gushing in here"

There is an oil heater in the dining room. The TV set is in the living room.

"I have no idea where the quints will sleep," said Mrs Heintzman. "I suppose they'll have to put them in the living room."

Fischer keeps two cows—a Guernsey and a Jersey — but does no farming. He has two cars, a 1953 Plymouth and a 1948 Mercury, and a pickup truck. "He drives the pickup to work and the Plymouth is generally the one that runs for Mary Ann," said Mrs. Heintzman.

Mrs. John Fischer, grandmother of the new quints, came to the house Wednesday when the Fischers learned that five babies were expected.

"I have been praying ever since," the grandmother said. "I prayed all night last night."

Second Set In Week

By the Associated Press

Quintuplet births are rare enough, but the past week saw two.

One set was born to a South Dakota couple Saturday and the other to a couple in Venezuela last Saturday.

Adding to the series of multiple births, two sets of quadruplets were born in the same period—one in Mississippi and the other in Iran.

The latest quints, four girls and a boy, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fischer, of Aberdeen, S.D., who already had five other children—four girls and a boy.

The other recent quints were all boys, born to Mrs. Inez Marie Cuervo de Prieto, 34, in Maracaibo, Venezuela. She also has five children by a previous marriage and is a grandmother. Her husband, Efren, 39, is a petroleum company foreman.

The Mississippi quadruplets were born last Saturday in Jackson to Mrs. Thomas N. Harkins, mother of five other children.

The Tehran newspaper Ettelaat said quadruplets were born last Saturday in Nacin, Iran, to Fahri Mousavi, wife of a shopkeeper.

Soviets Place News Blackout on Ag Reports

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet Union has imposed a virtual blackout on news of this year's grain harvest, which Western specialists here predict is going to be another agricultural disappointment for the Kremlin.

The prediction was backed up by a report the Soviet Union will shell out about $500 million in scarce foreign currency for a record order of more than 200 million bushels of Canadian wheat. Informed sources in Ottawa said Canada is expected to announce the deal in a day or so.

The Soviet press has carried comparatively little news on this year's harvest in a season when "victories on the agricultural front" are normally top news of the day.

Propaganda organs have concentrated instead on wastage of bread by the Soviet people.

Tito's Visit to Washington

There may be little rejoicing that Yugoslav President Tito has been invited by President Kennedy to pay an "informal visit" to Washington. Neither should there be cause for alarm or any public hostility.

• • •

In reality the President has acted wisely in issuing an invitation that was desired by Tito. The wording of "informal visit" shows that President Kennedy is aware of the displeasure a visit by the Yugoslav president will cause some congressmen.

• • •

The United States has much more to gain than to fear in maintaining relations with Yugoslavia. While it is a Communist country, Yugoslavia has a nationalism which does not bow to international communism. This independence of thought stands as a bridge between the East and the West.

It also stands as a hope that other satellite countries will dare to take a more independent stance. Khrushchev and Tito have buried the hatchet, but it has not been on Khrushchev's terms.

Tito visited the United States in 1960 when he met with President Eisenhower at the United Nations. He was no less a Communist then than he is now. There is much to be gained by having international communism divided by national interests.

To make communism work Tito has had to borrow both money and ideas from capitalism. Despite fears and howls of pain from conservatives, there is considerable evidence that aid to Yugoslavia has been money well spent. All of the storms out of the Kremlin have not washed out the bridge to the West built in Yugoslavia.

• • •

President Kennedy is as keenly aware of the difference in ideology between the two countries as are his critics. What Moscow has failed to destroy could be destroyed by the United States if Tito were snubbed and Yugoslavia was deserted by the West and had no way to turn but to the East.

• • •

It can be hoped that President Tito will be accorded the courtesy to which he is entitled as an invited guest of the President.

Post Office Department and Politics

Hope springs eternal in the human breast that some day politics will not be an overriding force in government appointments. President Kennedy broke the tradition of making the job of postmaster general a reward for the party's national chairman.

• • •

This, however, did not mean that the post was taken out of politics. His first postmaster general, J. Edward Day, was an early Kennedy supporter and an energetic fund-raiser. John A. Gronouski, Day's successor, had the foresight to line up on the right side back in 1960 when Humphrey was challenging Kennedy in the Wisconsin primary.

• • •

However what seems to be an even greater political asset is Gronouski's national origin (Polish), which might produce sizable dividends in Democratic votes among the large Polish-American populations of such major cities as Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo.

The New York Times quotes a White House source as saying, "He seemed to be the one who could do the most for the administration politically and run the Post Office Department too."

The Times caustically added its comment: "We are glad that the necessity for running the department got some weight, even as an afterthought. Perhaps one by-product of all the current stress on civil rights will be the arrival in national, state and local politics of a day when integration is so ingrained that no one gets an appointment or is denied one because of race, religion or national origin."

• • •

ROSCOE DRUMMOND Reports

Yankee, Please Stay!

Washington — A group of Americans has recently won a distinguished peace award unanimously voted by a committee representing 16 Asian nations, the first time such an award has ever been given by Asians to non-Asians. Still another group of Americans, working in an African country, has in less than two years changed the once ominous chant (not limited to Communists) of "Yankee, go home!" to "Yankee, please stay!"

Drummond

In recent weeks these groups of Americans have received praise and appreciation from the presidents of five countries on three continents, ranging from two who are staunch friends of the U.S. to one who is sometimes outspokenly anti-American.

• • •

Special Esteem

These Americans are the Peace Corps volunteers who are doing such effective and superb work for underprivileged people in many parts of the world that they are winning special esteem, even affection, for the United States. Here is some recent evidence:

• • •

1. The 1963 Roman Magsaysay Award to recognize persons in Asia who exemplify "the spirit, integrity, and devotion to liberty" of the late president of the Philippines, went to the U.S. Peace Corps volunteers. They were cited "for their service to the cause of peace and humanity in a direct and personal way."

2. Fernandi Belaunde Terry, new president of Peru, presided over a ceremony in which the city of Arequipa (second largest in Peru) awarded a silver medal to the Peace Corps volunteers working there to improve slum conditions. When the volunteers first arrived in Arequipa, the Communists were screaming, "Death to the Yankees." They have been silenced.

Nkrumah Impressed

3. President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, who walks a pretty tight rope between East and West and often leans the other way, was host at an official reception for the Peace Corps volunteers leaving the country after two years of service. A high-ranking U.S. official, not connected with the Peace Corps, gave the following account: "Nkrumah was obviously impressed by the sincerity, dedication, and attractiveness of the volunteers. He became increasingly cordial throughout the reception, helping to arrange pictures with himself."

• • •

Remember Margery Michelmore? She was the young volunteer who lost her postcard. When it was found on the street, describing the "primitive conditions" in which she was living, it touched off student protests. Now, two years later, as the 23 volunteers are preparing to leave, the students at the University of Nigeria are eager for others to take their place.

• • •

Congress will soon vote on renewing and expanding the Peace Corps. Its case is a good one.

RALPH McGILL'S Views

Remember the Congo?

Vietnam now fills the headlines the Congo held for three long, bloody and chaotic years. Time has done one thing for the still shaky and unstable Congo. It has proved all the United Nation's decisions over Katanga and its rebel ruler Tshombe to have been correct.

McGill

Galvanic critics of the U.N. had insisted that Tshombe was a patriot. Time has proved him to be of dubious morality and lacking in any patriotic concept of nationalism. He was, rather, one whose total dedication was to self-aggrandizement. It further was argued that the U.N. would itself become a colonial power in the Congo because if Tshombe were eliminated there would be no one left to organize and govern the rich mining resources of South Katanga, from which came most of the government's income.

The U.N. always sought to have Tshombe accepted as a political, tribal force. He is still in the government. But until, and unless, the wheel turns in his direction, he does not dominate. He presently accepts authority of the central government.

• • •

It is much too early to say the Congo has been saved. But it is not premature to believe there now is more hope. Optimism increases with the news of a very considerable achievement, attained with Belgian cooperation. The "national road" has been opened. It had been closed for three years because of Tshombe's defection from the central government. His guerrillas dynamited six bridges along the route.

• • •

Restoration of the bridges has ended the long, costly economic separation of Katanga from the Congo. This fact of being cut off because of the demolition of river highways is an example of the lamentable scarcity of roads and transport.

Before the civil war launched by Tshombe, the national route took 48% of the copper out of Katanga. The first long haul is by rail, 989 miles from Elisabethville to Port Franqui. There it is loaded on boats and moved down the Kasai and Congo Rivers to Leopoldville.

Rail shipments are sometimes slowed by tribal rivalries that make examples of railroad featherbedding in our own country seem trivial. In the first months of independence each of the many tribes along the almost 1,000 miles from Elisabethville up to Port Franqui demanded that only engineers of their particular tribe drive the train through tribal territory.

• • •

Belgium is coming back into the Congo in a healthy, cooperative manner. It is being welcomed. Paul Henri-Spaak of Belgium, has revealed himself as one of the really impressive and able statesmen of the world. He withstood most of his own countrymen in working with the U.N. in the one-time Belgian colony of the Congo. His patience, and the view of the U.N. leadership that Belgian advisers, technicians and administrators are indispensable in the years ahead, are paying dividends.

• • •

But Africa, the U.N. and the world also will benefit. The Congo is the largest and potentially the richest of the new African nations. It is destined, by virtue of its vast store of minerals, metals, gold and diamonds to be perhaps the boom region of the generation ahead. This is the hope.

Half Minute Inspiration

Every day you face choices. You choose between the right and the wrong, between just doing enough to get by, and doing your best. When you are faced with the choice between courage and fear, as a basic way of life, which one do you choose? Does it take you long to make up your mind? Or, have you consistently chosen the high way of courage? Courage that takes a long view, courage that is intelligent and full of purpose, considerate and kind, and honors God, Who said: "Be strong and very courageous." Dare to be a Daniel, Dare to stand alone, Dare to have a purpose true, Dare to make it known."

The Power of Faith

By Woodi Ishmael

JEREMIAH

(Second in a series on the greater prophets)

Jeremiah was the lonely man of God, forbidden to marry or to participate in the ordinary social relations of his fellow men. He knew little success during his life, yet his deep faith sustained him through bitter and trying moments of doubt.

The great contribution made by Jeremiah was the prophecy of the new covenant. The laws of Moses would remain the same, but the Lord said, "I will put my law in their inward parts and write it in their hearts; and will be their God and they shall be my people . . . they shall all know me from the least of them to the greatest of them . . ."

This was a fresh approach to man's understanding of God. He not only would be for the priests and prophets, but he would be in the hearts of all.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

Sessions of legislatures, Congress or the United Nations General Assembly are never anticipated by the public with any sense of pleasure.

Eyes on the U.N.

State, national and world problems are put on display and people are forced to think upon them. There is a little bit of the ostrich in everyone. Yet today people are thinking on world problems as they never have before. Some comfort can be taken that the 18th session of the 111-nation U.N. General Assembly opens Tuesday in an atmosphere of relatively relaxed East-West relations.

• • •

Chief interest early in the session focuses on the meetings of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home. The General Assembly gives them an opportunity to review the whole range of cold war questions.

• • •

President Kennedy will address the Assembly on Friday. Speculation that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev would attend this year's assembly has faded since Khrushchev down-graded the idea while visiting Yugoslavia.

Some of the discussion will be centered around such recurring topics as disarmament, peace keeping, finances, admission of Red China and anti-colonialism.

Under the peace-keeping discussions there will be efforts to extend the three-year-old U.N. operation in the Congo, which is opposed by Secretary General Thant because the Congo already has put the U.N. over $100 million debt. The U.N. is likely to extend its role as guardian of the peace in the Middle East.

• • •

In the financial area, interest will center around the Soviet Union, France and other delinquent members. On Jan. 1, the Soviet Union could lose voting rights in the Assembly if it doesn't pay up. Diplomats hope that a windup of the Congo operation may persuade Moscow to find a face-saving formula for paying up.

• • •

There may be a few hidden smiles as the Soviet Union repeats its effort to win Nationalist China's seat for Peking, in view of the hate propaganda being exchanged between the two countries.

African countries have less colonialism to berate but can be expected to keep up pressure on Portugal, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia.

A new item on the agenda will be the alleged religious persecution of Buddhists in South Vietnam.

• • •

The General Assembly stands as one of the modern-day wonders. Men of little countries and big countries meet on equal status to try to settle differences and maintain the peace. While angry talk is sometimes painful, no better way of easing tensions has been found.

Letters To Editor

Unsigned letters are not printed. Letters are most effective if brief and signed with writer's full name. Letters will be published over a pen name or initials only if accompanied by the writer's name and address — but use of pen names is not permitted on letters critical of individuals. The Editor reserves the right to condense letters.

Slavery?

Lincoln — Ignatius (Letters to Editor, Sept. 8) reiterates the Marxian concept that men who are employed by other men in a free market under a contract freely agreed to by both parties are "slaves" in the same sense as those who are required to work, by force, for an individual not of their choosing.

In the one case men freely choose to work and for the employer of their choice, and are free to quit working at any time; in the other, men are compelled to work without the freedom to refuse or to choose their employer, and for a length of time not of their choosing.

If Ignatius does not understand the basic differences between these two systems, he deserves to find out. In a day of mass economic illiteracy, such intellectual dishonesty is most unwelcome.

Personal Views Of The News

The State of Tennessee is rapidly gaining a name as a pioneer in the establishment of new forms of government. Few are there who do not know of the Tennessee Valley Authority and its tremendous success in the utilization of that state's water resources. And it was Tennessee that took to the courts and ended up with a U.S. Supreme Court decision on state apportionment that shook the country from one end to the other.

• • •

And finally, the city of Nashville, Tenn., has recently been host to a governmental seminar of newspapermen and others. The group studied Nashville's new metro plan of combined city and county government. As did Nashville, we are quick to point out that the same thing is not necessarily the right thing for every other city and county of the country.

• • •

But Nashville does believe that it is going to solve a great many of its problems with its new form of government. The city did no halfway job in the matter. It completely integrated the city and county so that there is now only one single government where there were two before. By coincidence, the factors that Nashville cited as peculiarly suited in its case to such a combination are very much the same as are found in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

But Nashville and the county in which it was located do not constitute the only note of similarity with Lincoln and Lancaster County. The Christian Science Monitor reports:

"A charter for metropolitan government was first offered the people (of Nashville) in 1958. At that time it was supported by both Nashville newspapers, the city and county administrations, the Chamber of Commerce, labor and practically all of the civic organizations. It was defeated, however.

"The visiting newsmen were told by James Robeson, businessman and the organizer of the second campaign that was successful in 1962, the reason it failed in 1958 was 'everybody was for it except the people. We went out and organized on a block-by-block basis in 1962 and got the people for it.'"

That sounds precisely like the Lincoln experience with urban renewal and fluoridation and about what would happen if Lincoln and Lancaster County submitted a proposal at this time for a metro form of government. The only difference, and it is a rather substantial one, is that neither urban renewal nor fluoridation has been submitted a second time and won.

The experience points up the real power of small but vocal groups. Such groups are at least able to give the people the idea that a subject is highly controversial and the only safe thing to do under such circumstances in the eyes of many voters is to keep things as they are. They assume that a controversy automatically means a risk, without ever bothering to figure out if the opposition has any validity to its position.

• • •

Nothing is intended to be plugged with these few words except the fact that elections are won by a lot of hard work. There just is not any quick road to success or any easy formula for victory at the polls. When it comes to bringing the true facts to all the people, it means not only taking the horse to water, but making him drink and this is considered a pretty difficult task.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

"That breeze Tuesday was just sighs of relief that the children were finally back in school," the writer in the Crawford Tribune mused. "The freshly scrubbed and combed young boys and girls that walked by our house on their way to school Tuesday were hardly recognizable as the same youngsters that have been living in their shorts and cut-off jeans all summer."

Discrimination

Demonstrations against racial discrimination in Omaha by Indians of the Omaha tribe was the theme of an editorial in the Thomasville, Ga., Times-Enterprise, accusing the administration of hypocrisy in not moving in on Nebraska as it did on Mississippi.

The Norfolk Daily News spoke for the defense, "No one will say that the Indians have fared well under the various measures drafted for them, but there is not the public and official discrimination that, in the case of the Negro, has caused the clash between the federal and state authorities. The Indian problem is a serious one that should be given closer attention by us all, but it is not to be likened to the racial problem in the South."

'City of What?'

In the Ralston Recorder, Yvonne Heenan, registering dismay at the growth pattern of one type of vegetation, noted "The downtown beautification project is well underway . . . Visitors to the city might even seek to revise our fair town's slogan soon. One apropos change might read: 'Beautiful Ralston, City of Progress — ive weeds!'"

A Natural

Ed Schultz' announcement that he will step down as secretary of the Nebraska State Fair prompted compliments and this recommendation from the Hastings Daily Tribune:

"In 1964, the last year that Schultz will actively be at the helm, there should be an Ed Schultz Day . . . The first year that Schultz took over there was marked improvement and there has been continued improvement. Each year the fair has steadily improved and attendance has continued to set records. It all goes back to Ed Schultz, his untiring efforts and enthusiasm.

"The least that Nebraska can do to show its appreciation is by staging an Ed Schultz Day at the fair next year. It should break all attendance records."

Crush of Enrolment Explodes Campuses

Among New Arrivals at College Will Be Computers, Tagalog

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Washington (AP)—Almost 4.5 million students return to college this month. They will find sparkling new buildings, baffling new technology, and programs of instruction which last year were only a gleam in some dreamer's eye.

From the smallest private colleges to the sprawling state universities, higher education in the United States is going in for great change.

Under the enrolment crush, the public institutions are changing more rapidly than the private.

New Dormitories

More than half the public institutions surveyed are opening new dormitories this fall to house more than 20,000 students. Nearly every campus will have at least one new building. About half of the new buildings are for new science facilities.

The University of Wisconsin, with 35,000 students, is spending $42 million to construct 18 buildings on three campuses. Wayne State University in Detroit is building a completely new medical campus. The University of Colorado is adding a $16.8 million hospital and research wing.

More attention is being paid to the preparation of teachers for the physically and mentally handicapped.

The University of Iowa will offer a new undergraduate degree program for students specializing in teaching the mentally retarded, and the physically handicapped. A new hospital, now under construction, will provide students laboratory experience.

The University of Wisconsin will initiate a five-year program, leading to a master's degree, for teachers of handicapped children. The University of Washington will begin work on its center for research and training in retardation.

M.D. In 5 Years

At Pennsylvania State University this fall, 29 hand-picked students will begin a revolutionary program to complete the requirements for an M.D. degree in 5 years instead of the traditional 8. The students will attend school around the calendar.

The University of Michigan goes on year-round operations this fall, as will three units of the State University of New York. Texas A. & M. is about to.

A growing number of institutions, such as the University of Nebraska, are using electronic computers to help register students, schedule their classes and keep their records.

Peace Corps

Michigan State University will have its own domestic peace corps—the Student Education Corp. MSU students will work with teachers in the elementary schools in poor neighborhoods in several Michigan cities.

Langston University in Oklahoma plans a "Sixth Grade Day" on the campus, a program which brings 6th graders to the university in an attempt to influence them to stay in school and continue their education.

New courses have been added everywhere.

Tagalog has been added to the other 70 languages taught at UCLA. A course in mathematical analysis for business decisions has been added at Oklahoma State, digital computer programming, at Ohio State; and manned spacecraft technology, at Louisiana State University.

The trend continues toward high admission standards and quality programs for the better students.

The University of Texas now requires two years of a foreign language for entering freshmen. Arizona State University has raised the academic requirements for upper division students in two of its colleges.

The University of Wyoming has upgraded its college of arts and sciences honors program, emphasizing individual research.

Vanishing Trail Caravan Set

Wall, S.D. — The fourth annual "Vanishing Trail" caravan leaves here Sept. 22 and will travel along an early stage and mail route between Wall and Faith.

Sponsored by the Wall Chamber of Commerce to keep the old western trails from being completely erased by history, this year's trip begins with a free pancake feed at Wall.

Open to all interested in western history the "1963 Pioneers" will view some of the old soddies and log cabins of early settlers and see the old campsite of Chief Big Foote and his tribe before they moved south to their doom at the Battle of Wounded Knee.

At Pedro the caravan will be served a potluck picnic dinner before heading on to Faith and journey's end.

Virginia Schools To Open

First Classes In 4 Years

Farmville, Va. (AP)—A long-cherished dream for Prince Edward County Negro children comes true Monday when the doors swing open to free schools for the first time in four years.

There still isn't any accurate count on just how many children will show up for classes. Officials of the Prince Edward Free School Assn. put the low estimate at 1,200 but point out that nearly 1,600 signed up in pre-registration clinics three weeks ago.

For many who do show up, though, it will be their first brush with formal education since 1959. For others, some of them as old as 10, it will mark the new experience of seeing the inside of a classroom.

It will be strange, too, for those who have attended school before. At first there won't be any formal grades until the teachers can sort the pupils out by ability. This, the officials say, may take until sometime this winter.

The free schools are a unique experiment in education, privately financed and scheduled to last a maximum of one year. The enrolment will be nearly all Negro, with only two white children known to have registered. The staffs and the administration will be integrated in this southside Virginia county which abandoned public schools rather than submit to court-ordered desegregation.

To administer the schools, the board selected Neil V. Sullivan, a Long Island, N.Y., school superintendent who was granted a leave of absence from his former duties.

White children have been attending a system of private, segregated schools. The county's Negroes declined offers to help them start private schools, and have continued their battle to force the reopening of the public schools on racially nondiscriminatory lines.

Many Fear Congress Put First Nail Into Coffin of Free Collective Bargaining

Washington (AP) —Industry, labor and government leaders are nagged today by suspicions that Congress may have pounded the first nail into the coffin of free collective bargaining.

They fear that the compulsory arbitration law, signed into effect six hours before the deadline for a nationwide railroad strike, may alter the course of national labor policy.

At the labor department, officials are hopefully reassuring. Some argue that the railroad work rules dispute was unique; that accordingly the drastic solution imposed by a reluctant Congress won't set a precedent.

But even one of these officials conceded that advancing technology, posing for labor leaders the problem of bargaining the terms of unemployment for their own union members, can create well-nigh impossible negotiating situations.

"In any basic industry where a labor surplus is developing, this is going to be a hazard," the official predicted.

The hazard is that compulsion increasingly will displace bargaining in labor disputes of major scope

There will be a growing tendency, industrial relations experts suspect, for the weaker party to force the dispute to a made-in-Washington settlement, until Congress becomes — in the words of one lawmaker — "the dumping ground for all serious labor disputes."

The possible future fronts for widened government intervention, according to Sen. Wayne L. Morse, D-Ore., are the industries having heavy responsibility for national health and safety. They include utilities, airlines, shipping, steel, trucking and defense production.

Morse, the seasoned mediator and arbitrator who engineered last winter's dock strike settlement, was one of the two senators who voted "nay" to compulsory arbitration for the railroads. He told his colleagues:

"It (compulsory arbitration) is a form of economic capital punishment. As a practical matter, it means there will be no more collective bargaining where it prevails"

Other Congress members voiced the apprehension which has led most labor and industry leaders to resist compulsion in the past — the possibility that third parties will be making decisions on which hinge the survival of unions and the right of managements to manage. Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, went further, saying:

"We are opening the way for complete domination of the economy by agencies of the federal government through control of wages, prices and working conditions."

Few share so dire a view, but nearly every legislator who spoke for the bill acknowledged the possibility of far-reaching consequences and voiced his reluctance to vote for it.

Congress was caught on a dilemma which some members described as an "unthinkable" strike and an "unacceptable" solution. The lawmakers accepted the unacceptable — compulsory arbitration

In an effort to minimize the precedent-making effect, Congress subjected only the two "primary" issues to compulsory settlement by an arbitration board. These were the proposed abolition of the jobs of 35,000 railway firemen, and the question of the size of train crews.

Five "secondary" issues were left to negotiation in the next six months between the railroads and the five train-operating brotherhoods

This not only circumscribed the area of compulsion but weakened the act. It opened the possibility that the party which comes out second best in the arbitration will stiffen its stand on the "secondary" issues. In that case Congress could find itself dealing with a new strike threat next spring.

Officials have had seemingly solid assurances this week from both sides that peaceable solutions to the "secondary" issues can be found.

But the risk was worth taking in any case, administration officials and most Congress members felt, because it can be argued that government compulsion is not being extended over questions of wages, hours or working conditions.

Beauty's Measurements Show U.S. Is Out of Step With World

Washington (UPI) — When Miss Switzerland visited this capitol a while back she gave her measurements as 92-58-92.

It developed, however, that the young woman, Diana Tanner, was using the metric system, as any Swiss lass naturally would. She was talking in terms of centimeters.

Translated into inches, the Swiss beauty's dimensions work out at approximately 36-23-36—still awesome but no longer unbelievable.

This incident may not be an argument for the metric vs. the so-called English system of measurement. But it does illustrate how far out of step the United States is with most of the rest of the world.

The metric system was invented by mathematicians of the French Revolution. It is a decimal system based on multiples or fractions of 10. The basic length unit is the meter, which is supposed to be one 10-millionth of the distance from the equator to the pole.

English System Just Grew

The English system, which has little rhyme or reason, just grew

U.S. scientists, film manufacturers, and drug makers use the metric system. But most other Americans use the inch - ounce - quart - fahrenheit system inherited from the English

This country, on the other hand, long since abandoned the English monetary system in favor of one based on the decimal. Still, most of the English-speaking world is at odds, in measurement, with everybody else including Soviet Russia.

Near 90% Uses Metric

Nearly 90% of the world uses the metric system. Foreigners visiting America are reminded that on this side of the Atlantic, a kilogram becomes 2.2 pounds, a liter 1.06 quarts, a kilometer 0.6 of a mile

U.S. scientists, machine tool makers, and some circles in the defense department would be happy if the whole country abandoned the system of 85 different weights and measures in daily American use and settled down with the simpler metric system.

Securities Index Hits New Record

New York (UPI) — The stock market battled a tide of profit-taking but managed to reach a new record high in fairly heaving trading last week.

The week opened with a fair-sized loss which brokers attributed to profit-taking from the breakthrough into new high ground last Thursday and disappointment of the failure of the rail averages to follow the industrial lead.

However, the easier trend was broken shortly after the opening Tuesday when rail averages began inching higher. News of the House Ways and Means Committee's approval of the $11 billion tax cut brought the Dow-Jones industrial average temptingly close to the record 737.98.

With the fuse already lit, the market was ready to blast the less-than-a-week old record Wednesday. First hour volume Wednesday was the largest since 1937 and many a broker recalled the terrific pace of May 28, 1962, when prices were heading in the opposite direction in what will long be remembered in Wall Street annals as "Blue Monday."

The Dow-Jones industrial average advanced over 5 points before last minute profit-taking cut the day's gain of 2.91, but it still hit a new record of 740.31. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index also racked up another record high of 73.20.

Despite tiny losses in the final two sessions brokers were impressed by the market's ability to resist selling pressure and many were predicting the advance would push up to the 750-60 level in the industrial average. However, they pointed out that there would be temporary setbacks and corrections along the way.

Analysts still were waiting for the "little man," the general public to join in the advance. They noted that odd-lotters still were sellers on the balance.

Business Given Lift

New York (AP) — Progess of tax reduction legislation in Congress last week gave business in general a lift.

The $11-billion tax cut bill was approved by the House Ways and Means Committee and moved ahead on an uncertain voyage through Congress.

Under President Kennedy's program, two-thirds of the cut would become effective Jan. 1, 1964, and the balance a year later.

The Treasury has estimated that the reduction would mean $2 to $4 a week more take-home pay for most wage-earning, taxpaying families.

Economic indicators point to further advances in overall business activity despite a number of uncertainties, reported the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

"The performance of production and related indicators since mid-year has been at least as good as most analysts expected," the bank said. It added that most measures of economic activity posted significant gains in July and incomplete information for August suggests continued strength.

Retail sales in August amounted to about $20.8 billion. This was about the same as in July but was 6% ahead of August, 1962.

Another Price Slide Is Taken by Fat Cattle

Omaha (UPI) — Lower prices in wholesale meat trade, coupled with liberal marketings on the opening session, seemed to be the major causes for another price slide in fat cattle prices here.

The heifer market was under particular attention as buying pressure hit the late trade.

Slaughter steers and yearlings were down 25 to 50c from last week's close. Fed heifers sold unevenly 50c to $1 lower in dull late trade.

Better fed steers again commanded $25 for weights from 1,206 to 1,238 pounds.

A large portion of slaughter steers and yearlings sold from $23 to $24.25, while plainer kinds brought $22.75.

The best heifers brought $24 and several loads weighing 948 to 1,009 pounds cashed at $23.85. The majority of the heifer sales were made from $22 to $23.50. The average price of slaughter steers, computed by the USDA, was $23.49, a drop from the previous and a big drop from a year ago. The weight average was 1,113 pounds.

Butcher hogs ended the week down 50 to 75c, mostly 50 to 65c off.

Weights from 190 to 260 pounds brought $25.50 to $26.25.

Sows were steady to down a quarter, with 290 to 600 pounders selling at $13.25 to $15.25. The week's high on butchers was $16.75.

Rye Leads Grains Up

Chicago (UPI)—Most grain futures surged upward last week on the Chicago Board of Trade led by a powerful rye market.

You Can Help Name 1963 Honor Farm Family

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Somewhere on a Nebraska farm or ranch there is a Nebraska Honor Farm Family for 1963.

You can help select the 18th consecutive Nebraska Honor Farm Family named by The Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star.

The first step is to nominate the family of your choice. This can be done by filling out the nomination blank and mailing it to The Lincoln Sunday Journal and Star before Oct. 7.

It is recommended that you mail your nomination immediately so you do not forget to place your choice of family on the list of those competing for the Honor Farm Family title and the $500 cash award presented by The Sunday Journal and Star.

Typifies Best

The Honor Farm Family is selected annually to typify the best in agriculture.

The award is determined by a family's success in the business of farming or ranching, their ability to make the farm or ranch a good place to live and their contribution to the community and farm-city relations.

Any bona fide Nebraska rural family of three or more members is eligible for the honor. Anyone can make the nomination. Each year many nominations are made by city residents who thus participate in the selection of the Honor Farm Family.

The person nominating the Honor Farm Family is invited to Lincoln to participate in Honor Farm Family Day, including the luncheon held in honor of the family selected.

Previous Honor Farm Families have termed the award presentation day in Lincoln "one of the highlights we shall never forget."

Leadership

Honor Farm Families have been characterized by their leadership in church, school and community activities.

The winning families of past years have been active in developing a better understanding between city and rural residents. They have been leaders in soil conservation, the production of better livestock and improved farming practices. There has been a strong family representation in 4-H, FFA and Future Home-makers programs.

The nomination blank should be mailed to:

Nebraska Honor Farm
Family Award
Box 588
Lincoln 1, Neb.

Additional blanks will be mailed on request or may be obtained from any county extension office.

Upon receipt of the nomination, a general information blank will be sent to the family nominated. This must be returned not later than Oct. 21, together with the signed permission of the head of the family to use the information and to publish photographs of members of the family.

Employment Service Aids NU Students

Each year the University of Nebraska Student Employment Service draws a large number of student applications for employment during the school year.

According to Robert L. Scott, Student Employment Service spokesman, the primary goal of the employment service is to assist students in obtaining a college education through part-time employment on and off campus.

Hours that students work may be as little as six hours or as many as 30 hours a week. Most working students spend their weekends, evenings and holidays on the job.

Why is Chevrolet building a fifth line of cars when it builds four great ones already?

A fair question.

And we could give you a lot of impressive sounding answers. But basically the explanation is quite simple. It has to do with people.

Each year their tastes become more demanding, more selective. They want a car that fits their particular needs. Almost just isn't good enough.

So for '64 we're building the Chevelle—a totally new line of cars that combines some advantages nobody else has come up with yet. Chevelle's comfort and conveniences, for example, compare favorably with many of today's bigger cars. Yet it gives you the handling ease and agility you expect in a smaller car. And as for looks—it's styled with a fresh and youthful flair all its own.

Possibly you're one of today's car buyers who've been looking for such a combination. Possibly you're not. (Which is the reason we're building our other four for '64: the new Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolet; the thrifty new Chevy II with a choice of new V8 power; the sporty new Corvair with a bigger, more powerful rear engine; and the refined new Corvette, America's only honest-to-goodness sports car.)

We feel sure you'll want to look over the Chevelle along with our other four lines when it comes to your Chevrolet showroom.

Driving it is an experience you're not likely to forget—particularly if you happen to get hold of one of the V8s. And along with its spirit, of course, you'll find the kind of quality craftsmanship and reliability you've come to expect of a Chevrolet-built car. Needless to say, it's that kind of car through and through.

Matter of fact, once you really get to know it, we have a hunch you'll come up with some reasons for building the Chevelle that haven't even occurred to us yet. Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

Drain Slower Than Expected On $12 Million School Bond

That $12 million Lincolnites voted almost a year ago for improvements to the physical plant of public schools may last longer than was originally supposed

Enrolments, while growing, aren't leaping upward at the predicted rate.

This means the dollars available from the $12 million bond issue don't need to be spent as quickly to buy extra classroom space.

A comparison of projected school-system enrolment published one year apart demonstrates that administrators are currently taking a more conservative view of what the future holds.

For instance, last summer the guess was that public school population in Lincoln would pass the 34,000 mark in September, 1966

Now, this isn't expected to happen until September, 1968, and the most accurate figure is the one for the school year immediately ahead.

In the past, these predictions have proven fairly accurate. The degree of error has been less than 1%.

Last year, as an example, the enrolment projection suggested 27,519 students would be officially registered. The actual total was 27,417, only 72 under the estimate.

This September, the revised projection called for an enrolment of 28,570. First-day count was 28,266.

A higher figure is expected when the formally official district membership is reported on Oct. 7, four weeks after the start of school.

Enrolment projections, while subject to error, still are considered an extremely important tool in good administrative planning.

They help pinpoint the need for future new facilities, plus where additional faculty will be required.

The enrolment, of course, covers the entire Lincoln system. Within isolated school districts affected by new residential development, student gains may exceed predictions by a distressingly large margin.

Enrolment projections are manufactured from the annual June census of all persons, 5 through 20, living in the district, plus tabulation of secondary school membership taken the previous October.

Following are estimates from enrolment projections completed for the Lincoln Board of Education on Sept. 3, 1962, and Sept. 5, 1963:

	1962 Projection	1963 Projection
1963	29,502	28,570
1964	31,277	29,906
1965	32,719	31,172
1966	34,187	32,476

Thanks to the yearly state law-required census, projections are modified annually and the most accurate figure

Nebraskan Reports On Work in Ghana

Fremont—Nebraska's first Peace Corps Volunteer found modern industry in conflict with traditional customs during his two years of teaching in Ghana.

Gross

Nathan Gross of Fremont, and formerly of Lincoln, who recently returned from South Africa, commented on the industrial, political and educational developments of the young inland country.

"Ghana wants a modern country, yet they have a traditional society," Gross said. "It is a young country in a social revolution."

Gross explained that Ghana is socialistic, but not Communistic "They don't want to align themselves with either side and prefer being middle-of-the-road politically," he said

He explained that industrial production in Ghana is on a socialistic basis, but that the "influence of communism is practically nil.

"Western influences predominate their language, trade, education. Most of their financial aid is from the West. United States aid has had a positive affect, especially in agricultural development."

While teaching languages at Swedru, 15 miles inland from the capital city Accra, Gross found that Ghana schools were confronted with administration problems due to "politics tending to foul things up."

"I didn't always enjoy the working conditions, but sacrifices in the Peace Corps are always exaggerated and I felt the job was worth doing.

"The natives were hospitable, but we were divided by cultural differences. I missed the automobile and would have liked a more varied diet."

Gross credited Ghana students with having a desire to learn. "They don't fool around; they show good classroom attention and respect—standing up when the teacher enters the room."

The former Corpsman will leave Sept. 15 for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he has an assistantship in the political science department of Michigan State University.

College Heads Hit Competition

Ask More Cooperation During 'Ideas' Session Here

By DICK HERMAN

Nebraska college presidents Saturday called for more cooperation and an end of competition among their institutions.

These views—and many more—were voiced before members of the Governor's Commission on Higher Education.

The Commission had asked college and university presidents to help the lay body get a better grip on what it is supposed to do, and how to do it.

The "ideas" session came at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, with the University of Nebraska hosting the 40-person group.

Very little of a definite nature flowed out of the meeting. One point of unanimity, however, was a basic agreement Nebraska's population needs to be sold on the value of higher education, far more than is the case today.

Once this happens, Dr. Fay Smith, Commission member from Imperial, speculated the public may be more inclined to relax "the most sensitive part of its anatomy, the pocketbook."

'Lose Suspicion'

Peru State President Neal Gomon said higher education in Nebraska would be the beneficiary if "we can rid ourselves of the suspicion of each other."

Before the current big enrolment tide started lapping into Nebraska's public and private schools, competition among the institutions for students was brisk.

Milo Bail, Omaha University president, also asked a halt to historical Nebraska divisions — city versus rural, East versus West, Omaha versus outstate, Lincoln versus Omaha, public school versus private.

He said the public must answer the question: Does Nebraska really want trained intelligence to save the state?

If that is to be accomplished the Omaha educator said barriers of caution, tradition, habit and vested interests must be overcome.

Bail suggested the state university should concentrate much more heavily in graduate and research programs, leaving perhaps "only an experimental freshman-sophomore core at Lincoln."

Closer to Home

Undergraduates would be encouraged to take the first few years of their collegiate experiences at schools closer to home under Bail's plan.

For NU to swing more toward graduate orientation would, in Bail's estimation, cost the state "two, three, maybe 10 times as much" as it does at present.

"But do the people of Nebraska really want the University to become a great University?" he asked.

Doane President Don Typer made a plea for greater utilization of present facilities in the total public-private package.

Bail insisted Nebraska schools must not be all things to all men and Nebraska Wesleyn President Vance Rogers saw the need for the Commission to consider possible realignments among the schools.

In this modification, Rogers placed the areas of administrative control and curriculum specialties.

Little Enthusiasm

Little enthusiasm was expressed, however, for the concept of a single board governing all public institutions of higher education.

A legislative interim committee will organize Sept. 20 to survey just this point.

NU Chancellor Clifford Hardin said what a state can afford depends not so much on its total population as its per capita income.

"We are not a poor state," he said, speculating toward gains "if we could get a more positive attitude on what we can do as a state."

The Rev. Richard C. Harrington, Creighton University, said he was bothered that so much public fuss was kicked up by ex-Lincolnite Ted Sorensen's remarks on Nebraska education several years ago.

"The hubbub was not against Sorensen's facts, but that he said it at all," Father Harrington asserted. He rapped the Omaha World-Herald for backing the philosophy state legislators should run on the platform of "let's not spend."

Cheapness Hit

And Norfolk Junior College President Don Maclay attacked the idea "that the successful school superintendent is considered the one who runs a cheap school. Education is not cheap."

Hastings President Theron Maxon summed up educators' difficulties. He said higher eduction "is hard to sell" because it deals with values which may not be those the public most cherishes.

And Lincoln Sen. Fern Orme, a Commission member, advised the group "it is up to the lay public to do the selling job. They must work at it 12 months a year."

An End To Cancer Predicted

Scientists Get Closer

Omaha (AP) —The president-elect of the American Cancer Society predicted here that human cancer will be eliminated.

Scientists are getting closer, not only to the causes of cancer but to the deepest mysteries of life, said Dr. Wendell Scott, St. Louis, Mo., radiologist. He addressed the annual meeting of the Nebraska Division of the society.

Dr. Scott said scientists in their laboratories have put together a molecule of DNA, the substance which carries the pattern of all our physical and mental characteristics, and have made the molecule reproduce itself.

"This is almost creating life within the laboratory," he declared.

Of all the applications to the American Cancer Society for money for research, Dr. Scott said, only 35% win support of a panel of top scientists. Of this 35%, there is money to support only two-thirds, he added.

Daykin—A car-gravel truck collision Saturday at a county road intersection one mile east and one mile north of here killed a 10-year-old girl and critically injured her sister, 12.

The Jefferson County Sheriff's office identified the victim as Audra Burkhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burkhart, area farm couple.

The injured girl, Elizabeth, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Lincoln.

Mrs. Burkhart, driver of the car, was reported in serious condition in a Fairbury Hospital.

The driver of the loaded gravel truck owned by R and H, Inc., Geneva, was Ronald A. Sanders, 22, of Geneva. He apparently was not seriously injured.

4-H Group Considered For Lare School

The Lancaster County Assn. for Retarded Children will present a proposal to the Lare School Board for the school's participation in a 4-H Branch Club.

Willard Rachow, president of the association, said the board will receive an outline of the proposed 4-H Club and its objectives at the board meeting Tuesday.

The club, sponsored by the Lancaster County and State 4-H, would provide special projects for retarded teenagers at Lare School.

Irish Terrier Doggone Proud; He Has Exclusive Status Symbol

By DUANE SNODGRASS

Out on North Cotner Blvd., there's an aging Irish terrier who's holding his head just a little bit higher today.

For that proud, maybe even haughty, canine has just gained a real status symbol among the doggy set—a listing.

Nope—this one's a listing in the bulging, new 1963 Lincoln City Directory, which includes thousands of Lincolnites' names, addresses, phone numbers and vocations.

Flip over to page 218, second column, fifth listing, and there you'll find him—Murphy Golden, 3331 No. Cotner Blvd

So how did old Murph slip in?

"It was all in fun," chuckles his master, Frank Golden, Lancaster County's deputy clerk.

"The folks from the city directory office called me a while back, wanting to verify last year's listings for the new directory.

"They wanted to know if there was anybody else living at my house besides my wife, Irene, and me. I told them sure, Murphy lives here."

"What does Murphy Golden do?" the caller asked.

Casting a glance at the sleeping, snoring Murphy nearby, and considering Murphy's nine years of life, Golden answered, "Well, Murphy is retired now."

So when the new directory was distributed recently, Golden eagerly flipped through the pages to 218 and down the listings till he found old Murphy's name.

We asked Golden if Murphy has had many calls since he gained a listing.

"Naw, Murphy doesn't answer the telephone anymore," Golden replied.

New City-County Building

Mayor, 4 Councilmen Favor 9th & J Location

By LEO SCHERER

Mayor Dean Petersen and at least four of the seven City Council members indicate they now favor location of a new city-county building at the Courthouse area near 9th and J instead of at 15th and O.

Those Council members favoring the Courthouse location say the basic reasons are cheaper land costs and availability of more space.

The 1961 Comprehensive City Plan calls for the multi-million dollar city-county building to be located between 15th and 16th, O to P, with the block between 15th and 16th, N to O, being used for joint parking for the building and Pershing Auditorium.

City and county records show that the appraised valuation of these two downtown blocks now is at least $1.5 million.

The Lancaster County Board has purchased most of the block directly south of the Courthouse Square and has so far spent $181,000 there. The block has a city appraised value of $114,375. The county's appraisal is $132,920.

Immediate Use

The commissioners have said the purchase of the block south of the Courthouse is primarily to provide more parking space and to alleviate overcrowding of some Courthouse offices (while some houses are being razed, others are being used by the county).

However, the commissioners also have gone on record as favoring the Courthouse location for any new county or city-county government building, when and if one of these is approved by voters.

Mayor Dean Petersen has said he hopes the city-county building issue can be presented to voters at a regularly scheduled election in 1964.

All Council members were contacted. None wanted his own position linked to his name at this time. However, four were willing to state anonymously that they favor the Courthouse area as a city-county building site.

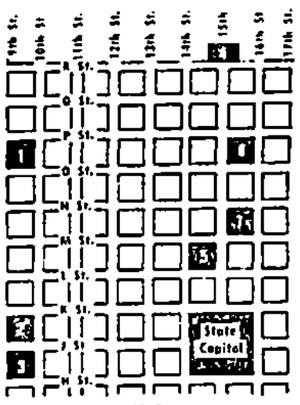
Two others said they hadn't decided and one described himself as neutral.

Legal Question

City Atty. Ralph Nelson said the final determination of a location legally rests with both the City Council and mayor.

"From a practical standpoint, all involved will have to sit down and resolve the question," said Nelson.

Chauncey Barney, chairman of the City-County Building Authority, said he felt the location question was a responsibility of the County board, mayor and City Council.



Cost Factor

The proposed 15th St. location wasn't favored by some Council members because of the expected high cost of the downtown property.

"I am still studying the matter," said Mayor Petersen. "But I doubt now that Lincoln voters would go for a city-county building bond issue for the 15th St. location because of the acquisition cost."

The county appraised valuation of the block of land between 15th and 16th, O and P, is $636,960 while the city's appraisal is $730,500.

On the block of land between 15th and 16th, N and O, the county's appraised value is $810,680 compared with $385,600 by the city.

Escapee Kirby Still at Large

Ronnie Eugene Kirby who escaped from Penitentiary Guard Archie Cornelius in Omaha, was still at large Saturday night.

Cornelius has since been dismissed by Warden Maurice H. Sigler for not following penitentiary officials' orders to keep Kirby in restraints at all times.

Kirby escaped after he attended funeral services for his father.

Legislature Errors May Haunt Makers

Scapegoats Could Be Demanded

By DEL SNODGRASS

The Nebraska Legislature will convene in special session Oct. 21 for the primary purpose of passing new legislation dealing with time sales and interest rates.

But every passing day makes it increasingly obvious that errors in the Budget Bill passed by the 1963 session will have additional far-reaching implications.

Many legislators, conceding they have been under considerable pressure from back home, may be looking for someone to blame for the mistakes.

Who they find to blame could affect the future political career of State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings and the future employment of the Legislature's first fiscal analyst, John Quigley.

Six errors in the Budget Bill have been called to the public's attention to date, but no single individual probably can be held accountable for all the mistakes.

Newness

Instead, the errors probably can be attributed to a number of individuals as well as the legislative system itself and the newness of the fiscal analyst's office.

This is the first year the fiscal analyst system has been in operation and Quigley is the first head of the office.

How satisfactorily the errors are explained could well determine whether Sen. Marvel, chairman of the Budget Committee, decides to seek the Republican nomination for governor.

And, because Quigley is new to Nebraska, he could find himself in the position as the scapegoat for the budgeting errors.

Some Unicameral observers think most of the errors, even though they are inexcusable, are technical ones which have been blown out of proportion and have no really disastrous effects.

Politics Seen

They feel much of the furor over the Budget Bill has, quite logically, been politically inspired because of Marvel's political ambitions and his persistent needling of administrative officials.

Observers believe the assignment of the responsibility for the driver education program to the Motor Vehicles Dept. rather than the Education Dept. is the most serious error.

It appears, however, that the error is the responsibility of everyone connected with the bill.

These include Quigley and Marvel, members of the Budget Committee, introducer Sen. Don Thompson of McCook, bill drafter Jack Wilson, Gov. Frank Morrison and the Legislature's Enrolment and Review Committee.

This error, observers feel, should have been detected by someone along the line as the bill went through the legislative mill.

Only a Secretary

Prior to adoption of the more detailed functional approach to budgeting, the Budget Committee used only the services of a secretary, Mrs. Marguerite Price, borrowed from the Legislative Council, to handle the detailed work.

Although budgeting was complicated then, it was far less so than the present functional system and she was able to keep up to date on appropriations, bills passed on the floor and floor amendments to the Budget Bill.

When the Budget Bill was debated this time, Marvel kept Quigley and his staff at his elbow on the floor to help fill in details on questions asked. During the afternoons Quigley and his staff were required to meet with the committee, thus leaving little time for him to devote to his other duties

Murals Fund

Morrison, the Capitol Murals Commission, the Budget Committee and Quigley probably must assume the blame for the lack of an appropriation to pay for three new Statehouse murals.

Observers think the commission and the governor should have made it clear what the requested appropriation was for and that the Budget Committee and Quigley should have checked on the effect of taking away the commission's unexpended balance

Wilson, Quigley, Marvel and the Welfare Dept. along with introducer Sen. Kenneth Bower of Red Cloud, are blamed for the failure of the Budget Bill to allocate funds for administration of the new Kerr-Mills Medical Care for the Aged Program.

Welfare Director Frank Woods has shown he called this matter to the committee's attention earlier in the session, but some observers believe Woods is not completely vindicated because he did not press his point further.

Not Budget Error

Observers feel an attorney general's ruling that an appropriation for the Disabled American Veterans organization is unconstitutional actually is not a budget error.

However, the Budget Committee reportedly had been informed during the session by Veterans Affairs Director Leo Beck Sr. that the section might be invalid.

Observers blame the lack of an appropriation for the Services for the Blind office on Quigley and Marvel, but they also feel this is a minor error which ordinarily would have created little fuss.

Another error was the lack of an appropriation provided for in another bill, LB811, the new Instalment Sales Act

Observers say this error should first have been caught by the introducer of LB811, Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus.

They also think that others who should have detected the error along the way included the Legislature itself and the Enrolment and Review Committee.

Final Check

The Enrolment and Review Committee is the final check on the accuracy of bills. In addition, observers believe the legislative system itself is at fault in this case because of the lack of a system in which all bills having a fiscal section would automatically be referred to Quigley.

Other errors, observers stress, had no connection with the Budget Bill. These included the qualification of veterans groups under the Bottle Club Bill, time sales problems and the secrecy provision in a juvenile court bill.

4-Year Solons

Other Offices Possible

Would Not Have to Give Up Senate

By ELLIS RALL

State senators elected to four-year terms in 1964 will find themselves in a better position to seek other state offices in 1966 without giving up their legislative seats.

The Legislature will be enlarged to 49 members in 1965 with those from odd numbered districts being elected to four-year terms in 1964 while even-numbered districts will be elected to four-year terms in 1966.

At least two senators are known to have asked the attorney general whether they could seek another office in 1966 without giving up their senate seat if they were elected to four-year terms in 1964.

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer said there is no restriction on legislators as there is on the constitutional officers and appointive officers who cannot run for governor while such an officer.

Meyer said a senator would have to resign his position only if he is elected to another office and should he be defeated during an election in his mid-term, he could still serve as a senator.

This would apply equally if the senator were considering running for governor, Congress or the Senate.

This provision would be especially beneficial to those senators elected to four year terms during 1964 if they are interested in the governorship.

The first four-year term for governor will be in 1966, thus whenever he came up for reelection it would fall in the interim period for the senators from odd-numbered districts who could seek the governorship without jeopardizing their senate seat, an advantage they have over senators from even-numbered districts.

This lays the groundwork for the possibility of each session of the Legislature becoming more and more a political testing ground for senators who eye the executive mansion.

Nebraskans Go for Gimme Games As Merchants Promote Business

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Nobody cares whether they call it Bonus Bucks or Shower of Gifts or Treasure Day. Just so they call the right winner.

Since liberalizing their lottery law, Nebraskans are going for "gimme games" like Las Vegas goes for landlord visitors. There are degrees of originality from one town to another, but the main gimmick is usually about $100 green.

"Read all over," at least in each participating business, is the name of a weekly winner. Usually his eligibility depends upon a previous registration and presence at one of the member stores as pre-sealed envelopes are opened simultaneously around town.

Chain Reactions

The cash (or merchandise) drawings seem to be especially popular in county seat-size communities, and competition for Saturday afternoon shoppers has started chain reactions down many a highway.

With a few exceptions, they're apparently paying off with enough extra profit to perpetuate themselves.

"They bring quite a few people to town, and naturally this is what we're trying to accomplish," observed Harry Franzen, Fairbury grocer and Chamber of Commerce president. "The interest might not last indefinitely, but the plans appear to be quite effective when mixed with other promotions."

His store, incidentally, is one of about a dozen in Fairbury which have even subscribed to a second plan, virtually a competitor of the first. One of these pushes Saturday afternoon drawings while the other has its handout Thursday nights.

Enthusiastic

Even more enthusiastic was one merchant at Nebraska City, who noted that some 60 people usually pack his store for the weekly announcement. A virtual "pioneer" since the new law was passed, the Otoe County seat is some six months into the promotion.

Auburn and Geneva are among towns grabbing the giveaway to smooth the transition from Saturday to Thursday night openings. Several other towns plan their lottery to make peppy open nights even peppier, while others prefer to schedule for slower traffic times.

A Pawnee City merchant commented that competing Kansans have offered similar attractions for years and that "the local Chamber is hoping to start something now that it's legal."

A number of Nebraska towns, incidentally, have long winked at state law without consequence.

One Failure

One notable failure for the plan is Beatrice. Participating stores have dropped from 51 to 23 in about three months' operation, according to executive vice president Joe Deeble

"We're dropping the drawings temporarily," he stated "Perhaps it is better suited to smaller towns, but at any rate it hasn't done what we thought it would."

4 Nebraskans' Vision Damaged During Eclipse

New York—Four Nebraskans were reported to be among the 247 persons who suffered some degree of visual damage from improperly viewing the July 20th solar eclipse, according to Dr. John W. Ferree, Executive Director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Dr Ferree explained, "These figures are based on cases seen during the two week period following the eclipse." He further stated, "We will never know the total numbers of persons who suffered eye damage from this phenomenon Ophthalmologists have discussed to us the fact that they continue to find cases of eye damage in patients who suffered the injury as children many years ago from viewing an eclipse."

Public Schools In State Are Praised

'Stack Up Well Nationally' Says Education Commissioner Miller

Because criticism almost always grabs more public attention than praise, State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller wants his fellow citizens to know Nebraska's public education report card deserves some twinkling stars

The majority of Nebraska boys and girls definitely attend good schools," Miller said.

In the upper quarter of Nebraska systems, the commissioner believes "the schools are every bit as good as any in the country. They'll stack up well nationally."

Some Nebraskans carry the opinion that the State Education Dept. likes nothing better than to criticize.

Not so, Miller responds.

Challenge Schools

He sees a departmental mission as challenging even Nebraska's best schools to "stretch out" in their educational offerings.

It's when the department plays policeman, when it assumes a regulatory function, that most of the citizen-heaved brickbats begin flying.

These embroilments ought not be held as a departmental indictment of local control over public education, according to the commissioner.

Miller says Nebraska case histories prove "local control does work in good environments." These are found where there's a willingness to back up planned educational programs with tax dollars and "solid moral support"

Local Support

In some communities, the pillars of local support have been built "well beyond the ordinary," Miller suggested.

"Nebraska has done well and in many instances, its districts have done magnificently in supporting educational programs," the commissioner added.

Academic subject area improvement is most noticeable to departmental consultants in science. Where basic introductions to science have been pushed down into elementary grades, opportunity for more advanced work was opened at the secondary level.

Miller thinks the majority of Nebraska school children also are being exposed to improved programs in English, mathematics and social sciences.

Teacher Tenure

Here, long tenure of teachers and administrators makes considerable difference, Miller said.

Generally, Nebraska's public school approach to instructional innovations is a conservative one. Nebraska schools are not among the first, normally, to try something new Yet, here and there one sees pioneering efforts. What the Nebraska Council for Educational Television has done, Miller suggests, rates well ahead of comparable ventures nationally.

"In my judgment, the athletic and activity programs will also lead most other states in balance and educational defensibility," the commissioner commented.

Problems Remain

But problems yet remain. In some communities, basketball takes on a greater importance than English or science. In others, school patrons go wild over the band.

Overall, Miller thinks Nebraska public school education—when seen from the viewpoint of where a majority of the children attend class—is a rather healthy, going concern.

The mission of tomorrow, he said, is to keep it that way, always being sensitive to improvement.

Joint Park Planning Is Urged

Schools' Help In Development

Fremont (AP) — Gov. Frank Morrison suggested here that the state education department might work closely with those involved in park and recreation development in Nebraska.

The governor spoke at a joint luncheon of the Nebraska Park and Recreation Conference and the Midwest Amateur Athletic Union here.

Morrison discussed LB756, the bill passed by the recent legislature which authorizes various governmental units, including school districts, to jointly develop recreation areas.

"Education has a vital role in stimulating young people to achieve the fullest life in their home communities," Morrison said. "There is no better potential place in the world to live than the average outstate Nebraska town. But there is a need for leadership for development of their facilities"

He said in many cases parks have become rundown and some have inadequate recreational programs.

"I'm willing to work with you and want to work with you to stimulate community development," Morrison continued. "It takes participation at all levels of government to further the development of community recreation

"The county can and must accept more and more responsibility in recreational development," he added.

The Park and Recreation group elected James Lewis of Lincoln president, succeeding Robert McKinnon of Omaha.

Other officers named include Ralph McClintock, Omaha, vice president; Ronald Donahue, Fremont, recording secretary; Dr. John Thompson, Lincoln, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Clifford Jorgensen, Lincoln, treasurer.

The group also planned for a committee, to be named later by the president, to aid in spreading information about LB756.

About 50 persons from eastern and central Nebraska cities attended the conference.

Omaha City Forrester Orville Hatcher gave a summary of Dutch elm disease and reviewed measures to control its spread.

Helen J. Coad Dies in Omaha

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. Helen J. Coad, widow of William J. Coad Sr., Omaha business and civic leader, died Saturday.

Her late husband, who died in 1961 had been president of Omar, Inc., from 1938 to 1949, president of the board from 1949 until his death, a director of Union Stock Yards Company, a member of the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben, a chairman of the board of trustees at Creighton University, and had been a leading soil conservationist.

DOs to Meet

The Nebraska Assn of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons will hold its annual convention Saturday through Monday in Grand Island at the Hotel Yancy.

Charles Rietdyke (left), Waterbury's United Fund campaign chairman, and Seward check ground rules on fund competition.

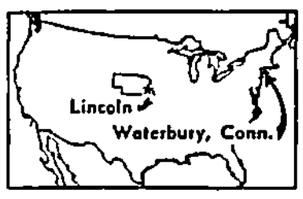
Waterbury, Conn. Challenges Lincoln to United Fund Duel

As the Nebraska Cornhuskers kick off for football contests each Saturday, United Appeal drives will be kicking off in 2,204 cities throughout the nation. And one of these cities has challenged Lincolnites to an off-the-gridiron contest which is of equal importance to many Husker fans.

Waterbury, Conn., a city comparable to Lincoln in many ways, has challenged Lincolnites to a contest to see which city can raise the highest percentage of increase over last year's United Appeal goal by the close of the campaign.

Waterbury will be kicking off its campaign October 7 to raise $735,000 for 29 community services—just one day before Lincoln's Community Chest-Red Cross United Appeal kicks off a volunteer effort to raise $717,921 and 5 days before the Nebraska Cornhuskers kick off to the Air Force.

Waterbury's goal last year was $725,000, while Lincoln's was $701,434. The 1964 goal for Waterbury is about 4% higher, and Lincoln's increase is nearly 6%. "So if we make our goal this year, we can win the contest—unless Waterburians go over their goal," said Harry Seward,



Lincoln's campaign general chairman.

"But they must be pretty confident to issue a challenge to a city with such a fine record of successful giving as ours," Seward said. "We've a lot of work ahead." Lincoln has met its United Appeal goal each year since 1927.

"We hope Lincolnites can get up as much enthusiasm about beating Waterbury as they probably will when the Cornhuskers meet Oklahoma," Seward said, "because this is a very important record to uphold for the thousands of Lincolnites United Appeal funds help."

The Lincoln-Waterbury dual won't be quite as fierce as the Husker gridiron contests, Seward added, "as we certainly hope that Waterbury and all other United Appeals across the country meet their goals."

Waterbury's United Fund solicits a population of about 150,000, and contributions support 29 agencies, including 11 of the same services which Lincoln's United Appeal supports—Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Child Guidance Center, Catholic Social Service, Family Service Assn., Jewish Welfare Federation, Salvation Army, Legal Aid Bureau, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.

Located 21 miles north of New Haven and 89 miles northeast of New York, Waterbury is known as the "Brass Center for the World," and "any small article that can be made out of metal is likely sooner or later to be manufactured in Waterbury," according to Waterbury Chamber of Commerce reports.

Campaign competition plans between the two cities include telephoned reports of campaign totals. Waterbury has arranged a direct phone hookup and will be phoning Lincoln during their report luncheons, according to Willis Johnson, executive secretary of the Lincoln Community Chest.

Johnson said he hopes all Lincolnites will share interest in the inter-city competition. "At least we know that over 4,000 volunteers, 56 community services and the citizens they serve are very interested in seeing that both cities 'win' in the United Appeal efforts."

Unit of State's Air Guard Gets Trophy, High Praise

By GENE BUDIG

Washington—Praise flowed freely Saturday as more than 150 officers and men of the 155th Fighter Group of the Nebraska Air National Guard accepted the Winston P. Wilson trophy.

The award is given to the best all-weather fighter interceptor unit in the Air Guard.

And the Nebraskans, commanded by Brig. Gen. John Campbell, have copped the national honor 3 times in the past 5 years.

Said Campbell:

"The distinction of winning for two consecutive years is a tribute to all those officers and airmen who have worked to maintain this high standing.

"It is tough to get on top, but it requires even more stamina and enthusiasm to stay on top.

"This achievement is even more outstanding when it is realized that all 27 Air National Guard air defense units exceed minimum Air Force standards for regular units."

Nebraska Adjutant General Lyle Welch said:

"The Air Guard has clearly demonstrated its ability to function efficiently in the protection of life and the preservation of peace, order and public safety during emergency conditions in the state of Nebraska.

"It is a well trained and highly capable military organization. I am extremely pleased with the Air Guard units."

Though unable to attend, Governor Morrison wired:

"It is significant to note this is the 3rd time in 5 years that our Air Guard has won the Wilson trophy, which is proof of the continuance of the vigor and dedication of this organization. It has contributed greatly to the security of the country."

More than 150 officers and airmen from the 800-man Nebraska group attended the presentation, sponsored by the Night Fighter Assn., a non-military organization.

Named in honor of Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, the trophy was presented to Col. Fred H. Bailey Jr., fighter group commander.

Kearney Dean Resigns Post

Dr. Lester Hunt, dean of administration at Kearney State College has resigned, President Milton Hassel reported Saturday.

Hassel said Hunt quit, effectice with the beginning of the current school year "for personal reasons and to accept another position." Hassel said he did not know the nature of the position.

Prior to joining the Kearney staff in 1959, Hunt was with the State Education Dept.

STATEHOUSE LETTER

Had Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City been that sort of individual, he could have provided an embarrassing situation for Gov. Frank Morrison last week.

Over the prior weekend, Stryker wrote the governor asking him to include public power legislation in the governor's call for a special session of the Legislature.

Then Morrison left Nebraska for a Chicago meeting, leaving Stryker, as chairman of the Legislative Council, in the role as acting governor. The second and third men in line for the job, Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney and Legislature Speaker William Moulton, also were out of the state.

Stryker, therefore, received his own letter to the governor and could have issued the special session call. He didn't do so, however.

Secrets Broadcast

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller may look to see if the room is "wired" the next time he meets informally with his staff.

Dr. Miller met with his employes in the legislative chamber last week and told them he expected the State Board of Education would not stick with the Budget Committee's recommendations for salary hikes. What Miller didn't know was that speakers from his microphone were turned on in press row just outside the chamber. Reporters heard the discussion and reported the story. Miller didn't deny making his comments, however.

Senators Unimpressed

A group of state senators who received a briefing on Air Force missile development at San Bernardino, Calif., spent the day in drizzly rain while the sun shone brightly back in Nebraska. The delegation wasn't overly impressed by the Californians' assurances that "it never rains here at this time of year."

Samoan Visits

Lawrence Amoa, who is slated to become West Samoa's finance officer, visited the Statehouse last week to learn about Nebraska's fiscal structure. Amoa received his briefing from John Quigley, the Legislature's fiscal analyst.

Triplets in Statistics

Two sets of triplets and 329 sets of twins were born in Nebraska in 1962, according to the annual report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics. A total of 1,078 children were born out of wedlock, with the youngest mothers being four 13-year-olds. The report also showed there were 11,185 marriage licenses issued in comparison with 2,300 divorces granted.

Tour Gets Notice

Gov. Frank Morrison received a long distance call from his wife, Maxine, who is leading the "sell Nebraska" tour in Europe. Mrs. Morrison reported she was interviewed in Frankfurt, Germany, by former Lincoln newsmen Loyal Gould, who now is with the Associated Press Bureau in Frankfurt. She also reported the tour is receiving extensive coverage in the European press.

'X' on the New School Signs Has a Meaning

By LEO SCHERER

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger says the "X" on the new school signs has a meaning.

"That X stands for crossing," said Holsinger, who feels it is important that motorists understand the complete meaning of the signs.

The new signs, Holsinger feels, will be easy to see and also give the city some uniformity at school crossings.

Over 200 of the signs will be installed.

Around City Hall

Concern Told

School Board officials have expressed some concern over the city treasurer's receipts for sundry income and tax collections always being in quantities around $90,000.

David Sell, school district business affairs manager, says the reason is that the city's tabulating machine will only go to $99,999.99 and the city has no office machinery capable of writing receipts for higher figures, so extra bookkeeping is necessary.

Robert Wheeler of the city treasurer's office says school officials have been asked to pay partial cost for another machine that will go beyond $99,999.99, but they refused.

"The only business we need to go farther than $99,999.99 for is for the school board," said Wheeler.

Wheeler indicated that the same machine and same procedure will continue unless school officials want to pay some of the cost of a change.

Voters Sought

Watch for some far-reaching changes in the election commissioner's office.

B. J. Holcomb, newly appointed commissioner, has some ideas that she hopes will increase registration and also the number of voters going to the polls.

Several of the employees who have been in the office for many years are continuing under the new administration.

This Freshman 78 Years Old

Kearney—Kearney State College has a 78-year-old freshman.

S. A. Wilson, who was Buffalo County treasurer here from 1949 to this year, decided he would do some research. He said he wanted to find out if "it's possible for a man of 80 to know as much as he thought he did at 18."

Wilson

So he decided to go to college.

Said Mrs. Wilson: "I thought it was hard enough to get our only son through college, but I don't know about a husband."

School Is Set For Blind Tots

A day school for pre-school blind children will be started in Lincoln in the next 10 days to two weeks, under the sponsorship of the Christian Record Braille Foundation, Inc.

The school will be located in the foundation's new facilities at 4444 So. 52nd St.

Two teachers have been employed to operate the school.

Parents in Lincoln and the surrounding area who have pre-schoolers who are blind or visually impaired who are interested in having the children participate in the school are asked to contact the foundation's manager, C. G. Cross, at the 52nd St. address.

House Of The Week A Home With a Built-in Pool

By Associated Press

Though recreation plainly is its primary purpose, a pool should be more than just a backyard swimming hole. The refreshing natural beauty of pooled water as a landscape attraction is recognized everywhere from the Taj Mahal to the Washington Monument—and so it can be with your home.

Today's House of the Week, J-93 in the series, was designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern to take maximum advantage of both the recreational and aesthetic functions of pool.

Added Later

Moreover, the arrangement of the house is such that the pool could be added later. Meanwhile the convenient shower room adjoining the laundry could be used for storage; a partition could substitute for the door between the pool bath and main bath.

The house is a crisply contemporary four-bedroom ranch. Its exterior is subdued and uncluttered. A dramatic prow-shaped living room bay with exposed roof beams complements the sturdy rectangular shapes of the bedroom and garage wings and the chimney. Vertical siding contrasts with the horizontal roofline. Living area excluding garage and porches is 2,167 square feet; over-all dimensions are 85'4" wide by 47'2" deep.

Delightful Vista

The delightful vista of the pool can be enjoyed not only from the broad terrace and pool porch with its angled walls, but from five inside rooms as well: the family room, kitchen, dining room and even the living room and master bedroom.

Designed for enjoyment . . . exterior is subdued and uncluttered.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Acreage Life Can Be Nightmare

Living on an acreage near a city has many obvious advantages. However, to keep your lifetime dream from becoming a nightmare, some careful thought is needed.

Remember that the beautiful view which you have now can be radically changed if you do not own the land where the beauty is. With the rapid growth of cities, today's sylvan setting can become tomorrow's housing development.

Pay particular attention to the skyline which surrounds you. From a landscaping point of view, open sky with its moving clouds and changing weather is a continuing source of interest. Nebraska is famous for its sunsets, but if the sun goes down behind the sewage disposal plant, the thrill is gone. Check on zoning.

Check Planning

Moreover, visit the city planning department and inquire about future by-passes. As cities grow the highways that bypass them move into the country. Ten-ton trucks shaking your dream cottage all night will not add to your tranquility and peace of mind.

Conversely, if properly zoned, this by-pass land can buy a dozen dream cottages when the tundering herd of truckers and tourists comes. Filling stations and roadside restaurants love the sound of motors and will pay a premium for land adjoining heavily traveled roads.

By all means, have the soil analyzed on your prospective acreage. Fertility in the soil is money in the bank. You will be able to grow that garden and orchard without constant fertilization. Incidentally orchards grow best on ground that slopes to the east or north. South and west slopes dry out quickly in the direct sunlight.

In choosing fruit trees for that orchard, remember dwarf trees bear sooner than standard trees; give less fruit, but more often the individual apple or pear is larger. Also check on the life expectancy of the trees. For example, peach and plum are short-lived. Apple and pear produce for longer periods of time.

Big Lawn Headache

Do not put more area than you can maintain into blue grass lawn which, confidentially, is a constant and continuing headache. Distance lends enchantment to the eye and brome a hundred feet away will keep you the country squire that you want to be rather than a harassed lawn mower jockey.

After considering these points and countless others, by all means buy that acreage. It may kill you, but, believe the voice of experience — you will die transcendentally happy.

Garden Gossip

Bugs Head For Homes

By EMERY NELSON
County Extension Agent

Most homes can expect some unwanted visitors during the next few weeks.

These visitors will be insects, which seem to be able to sense the coming of cold weather and are looking for a nice warm place to spend the winter.

The more common of these insects are crickets, box elder bugs and ground beetles. All can rapidly be poisoned this time of year to prevent them from entering and living in the house.

The treatment is to spray the foundation of the house and a few feet of the lawn area with chlordane or dieldrin. The foundation is sprayed rather heavily with the insecticide to cause the solution to run down the cracks between the basement wall and the soil.

Spray attachments for garden hoses are excellent for this purpose.

When one of these sprayers is used, two cups of 45% chlordane or 1 cup of 15% dieldrin is put in the quart containers of the spray attachment and then it is filled with water. Be careful not to spray tender plants with this mixture as it may burn the plants.

In some cases additional spraying may be necessary inside the basement. Chlordane may again be used if mixed carefully. In using chlordane inside the house use 2 tablespoons of 45% emulsion to 1 gallon of water.

Do not spray around food and carefully wash spilled insecticides off yourself after you finish spraying. Be careful that children and pets are not exposed to the insecticides.

History Relived in Studio's Display

Celebrating its 75th anniversary this week is Lincoln's only firm still conducting business in the same building that housed it 75 years ago.

Townsend Photograph Studio, 226 So. 11th, will display at an open house this week some 300 pictures from their files of Lincoln and Nebraska's history.

The photos range from scenes of early Lincoln streets and buildings to pictures and portraits of many Capital City citizens of by gone days. These include such famous Nebraskans as William Jennings Bryan and Gen. John J. Pershing.

Among the studio's collection are pictures of events in the life of presidential candidate Bryan showing his home, speeches, and a Florida shot in Camp Cuba Libre during the Spanish-American War.

Ben Meyer, who purchased the firm in 1951, said the photographs, early portraits and community scenes, would then be donated to the State Historical Society.

He said the pictures were selected from some 300,000 negatives in the studio's files.

Built by Timothy Townsend in 1883, the building was designed as a studio and has been in continuous operation since.

Meyer, associated with the studio in 1927, said photography has come a long way since the early days.

He said clamps were used in the early days of photography to keep people from swaying while their pictures were being taken. Time exposure shots were necessary and sometimes took 10 or 12 seconds.

Now, he said, you can take pictures in 1-1,000 of a second.

"In the old days," he said, "we had to use gas lights and the feel of the stomach."

The latter, he explained, was the knowledge of when the necessary time had elapsed and came only with long experience.

RELICS—Meyer holds huge glass plate negative of the late Dr. B. L. Paine, dating from the beginning of the firm. Beside him is a 50-year-old 12 by 20 inch camera. Below the camera is an 1888 head clamp used to hold the sitter still during a several second exposure.

State's German Conference Among First to Join UCC

By MIKE BAXTER

A one-time German-speaking church group will close the books on its 84-year history in a 7:30 service tonight at Zion Congregational Church, 9th and D.

At that time the Nebraska German Congregational Conference will officially integrate with the United Church of Christ.

The German conference had voted at its annual meeting in April to discontinue its separate existence.

This act came about two years after the Congregational church merged with the Evangelical and Reformed church to form the new church union.

About 500 persons are expected to hear the Rev. Benjamin H. Kissler of Denver, pastor-at-large for the German Congregational churches, and the Rev. Dr. Fred Register, minister of the Nebraska Conference of the United Church of Christ.

Program features include the transfer of German conference records to the United Church of Christ and a recognition for outstanding service by laymen and ministers of the defunct conference.

The Rev. George Kuhn of Lincoln's Ebenezer Congregational Church said the old conference will be one of the first in the country to merge with the UCC.

He said the German Conference, headed by the Rev. Ben Rieger of Lincoln, has about 2,000 members and 10 churches, half in Lincoln.

The Nebraska Conference of the United Church of Christ, he said, has about 35,000 members.

Bishop Off Tuesday For Lisbon

Going to Rome For Council

By MIKE BAXTER

The ecumenical ship is safe ashore after the recent shakedown cruise at Rome.

And when it departs Sept. 29 with a crew of 2,500 Catholic prelates captained by Pope Paul VI, Bishop James V. Casey of Lincoln will be aboard.

Casey

The Most Rev. Mr. Casey, bishop of the Lincoln diocese, will leave Omaha by plane Tuesday for Lisbon, where he will visit with a former schoolmate, Bishop Loras Lane.

The bishops will tour Germany six days before moving into the Residence Palace on the Via Archimedes.

The Council, first since 1870, had some trouble leaving drydock:

Some resisted calling the Council, many were inadequately prepared, organizational machinery had rusted.

But today, Bishop Casey said, "I am much more optimistic, because I feel that the first session has given us all experience and knowledge."

The new session, he thought, "will move along much more smoothly.

"Most of us have had a chance to do more study. We know what goals have been set and how to move toward those goals."

Immediate Goal

The immediate goal is "the rejuvenation and renewal of the church itself."

Before this is realized, there will be "statements of the religious liberty of all the people of the world and a study of the problems of the sources of revelation of God's story of our salvation," Bishop Casey said.

"I believe the present Council will issue a (statement) which will clarify the religious liberty of every man who worships God according to his conscience."

"The biggest task," he added, is a clarification of what we mean by the church of Christ."

The bishop will remain in Rome until Dec. 4, when the second session ends. He plans to attend a third session, if one is held.

Dedication Postponed

The dedication of the Marian Center, originally set for Oct. 6, has been postponed to "probably next spring."

Another Jubilee observance, open house in all diocesan parishes Sept. 29, has been scheduled to coincide with the Council opening.

Joining the bishop at Rome in October will be Msgr. Max Dewitt and the Rev. Rawley Myers, both of Lincoln.

Fr. Myers, editor of the Southern Nebraska Register, will report the Council.

Nebraska's other bishops, Bishop J. T. Paschang of Grand Island and Archbishop Gerald T. Bergan of Omaha, indicated last summer they will attend the Council.

United Church Women Observing 30th Year

Lincoln United Church Women, (UCW), whose annual missions institute is already under way, will celebrate their 30th anniversary Tuesday in a program at St. James Methodist Church.

Four members of the original board and past presidents will be guests.

The meeting will open at 10 a.m. with prayer service conducted by Mrs. Gertrude Hanford. The morning speaker will be John R. Gage of the Lancaster County Public Welfare Dept.

Afternoon speakers are Burt Galloway and Arthur Macy, social group workers at the Nebraska Home for Children.

This will be the first regular meeting of the new year for the group.

The UCW opened their annual missions institute at St. Paul Methodist Church Thursday. The institute, with the largest curriculum in its five-year history and what may be a record attendance will be held at the church each Thursday until Oct. 17.

The institute is organized around interdenominational study courses.

Study programs this year include the Christian mission in southern Asia, the United Nations, leadership training and challenges to the church posed by the changing city.

At the opening class, one instructor termed the Christian church and the United Nations "natural partners."

"Sometimes political ideologies have been in conflict with the ideas of the church," said Miss Eula Merwin, "but these have always been resolved as soon as there has been an understanding."

She said "the more the people of the church learn about the U.N., the greater the support for the U.N. that will come from the churches."

Other instructors include Mrs. Harold Claytor of Walton, the Rev. Lee Schomer, Mrs. Edwin M. Wever Jr., Mrs. P. O. Marvel of Giltner and Mrs. A. F. Daland.

Mrs. Elmer Barnhill is general chairman. She is assisted by Miss Edith Lumsden.

Presbyterian Women to Meet

The Nebraska Synodical Society, the Presbyterian women's organization, will meet at First Presbyterian Church Sept. 24-25.

The Rev. Dr. Silas G. Kessler of Hastings, moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Church and the Churches."

Dr. Addison H. Leitch, vice president of Tarkio (Mo.) College, will speak Tuesday evening on "Go—the Imperative of the Kingdom."

Mrs. A. W. Epp of Lincoln is society president. Mrs. A. L. Hadwiger of Scottsbluff is program chairman. The Rev. Dr. Glover A. Leitch is host minister.

WSCS Plans Seminar Here

The Lincoln district of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will sponsor two seminars Sept. 23 and 24 tailored to promote the group's study courses.

The first is scheduled for Epworth Methodist Church, the second for the Tecumseh Methodist Church.

Seminar leaders include Mrs. Virgil Sugden of Lincoln, Mrs. Chester Hileman of McCook, Mrs. Virginia Duxbury of Lincoln and Mrs. James Knisely of Beatrice.

Scholarship Program Set

A program to increase support for a Nigerian student scholarship fund begins at 3 p.m. today at Redeemer Lutheran Church, 33rd and J.

Agnes Winter, on furlough from the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod mission at Eket, Nigeria, will speak.

Second Baptist Starts Drive

The Rev. Ken Halliday of Valley Forge, Pa., fund drive director at Second Baptist Church, will speak at 10:45 a.m. today at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Halliday is building fund counselor for the American Baptist Convention.

A $50,000 goal has been set for the all-member canvass Monday through Sept. 26, raising funds for a new education wing at the church.

Wesleyan's Distinguished Visitors From Scotland Like U.S., Lincoln

By BARBARA PARRY

Dr. Tom Moir McCourt and his wife Jean are finding America and Americans "different than what we expected."

The 58-year-old professor of music and teacher training is on sabbatical leave from Moray House College of Education in Edinburgh, Scotland, and is spending nine weeks as a visiting professor at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

"We find Americans not noisy at all, but exceedingly quiet and gentle. They do not have transistor radios going day and night as we had been told," Dr. McCourt said.

As for Lincoln: "It is a lovely town. The shops are absolutely astonishing. There is a variety of homes and the people are most hospitable."

Dr., Mrs. McCourt . . . 'Americans aren't noisy at all.'

"I don't always agree with my husband," Mrs. McCourt said, "but I agree with everything he has to say about America. It has all been so wonderful. The days have gone by like a dream."

The McCourts are living in an apartment in the home of Mrs. J. Reid Green of 5043 Huntington Ave. and will be in Lincoln for the first half of the semester. Dr. McCourt will launch a visiting distinguished professor program at Nebraska Wesleyan and will lecture in music, education and literature classes.

The McCourts arrived in Lincoln Aug. 26 after a bus trip across the country. "It was very interesting," Mrs. McCourt said. "We thought it was the best way to see America."

Dr. McCourt had only one complaint about Americans: "I would like to see them queuing up for buses instead of the mad rush to board a bus. The only time I saw Americans in a free-for-all was getting on a bus."

Dr. McCourt came to Nebraska on the invitation of Dr. Vance D. Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan who visited Scotland last November. The second half of the semester Dr. McCourt will be at Colorado Woman's College in Denver.

Dr. McCourt has published a volume of Robert Burns' songs and has lectured across Scotland and written many articles on the poet. He noted that his birthday, Jan. 25, is the same as Burns.

He is particularly interested in teaching music as a part of the general education system and in its presentation to non-professional students. He is working on a recorder-tutor which would be used to train pupils in the reading of music to supplement or replace conventional methods of teaching class sight-singing.

He is just meeting Nebraska Wesleyan students this week, and Dr. McCourt said they are "very friendly. On the whole Nebraska Wesleyan is very lively — a lively mind behind it."

"The concept of education is quite different here," he said. "We have no independent colleges like this. Ours have less liberal arts—more vocational. We are perhaps further advanced technically when we leave the university but you all have the same background." This gives you something we don't have. It's part of your classless society, I think."

Mrs. McCourt said she was impressed with the high standard of living in America and "how hard the people work. You have gadgets to make life easier, but then you do more things instead of taking it easy."

Mrs. McCourt is busy herself in Scotland where she has been working for 11 years with teen-age delinquents. The problem is much greater there than in Lincoln, she said.

New Year 5742 Near On Jewish Calendar

With the blowing of the shofar (ram's horn) at sundown Wednesday, the nation's Jews will salute New Year 5742 and mark the beginning of the Jewish religious calendar's most solemn observance.

Ten days of penitence open with the Rosh Hashonah (New Year) and end on Sept. 28 with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

For Jews, this will be a time of reflection, rededication and reappraisal.

The fate of those judged and found wanting, according to Jewish tradition, hangs in the balance during this time.

Through prayer, penitence and charity the Jews may "avert the severe degree" and be inscribed in the Book of Life for the coming year.

U.S. Mail's Pot Lids Save Toddlers' Lives

What does the U.S. Post Office Department do with 20,000 pot lids?

Unlike the ordinary lids that cover pots and pans on the kitchen stove, these pot lids are being used for mirrors on postal trucks, and, according to post office officials, have saved the lives and limbs of a number of toddlers attracted to the red, white and blue trucks.

Lids are mounted on 27% of the larger trucks of the Lincoln Post Office fleet to eliminate the driver's blind spot in the front bumper area.

For a number of years safety experts of the post office department have tried to come up with a mirror which would bring this area into view from the driver's seat. Children are attracted to the brightly colored post office trucks, and in the last two years three toddlers were involved in accidents with postal trucks in Wichita, Kan., according to Elmer M. Pinkerton, superintendent of vehicle maintenance and operations for the Lincoln department.

The suggestion to use a pot lid won a $3,000 bonus for a Sarasota, Fla., postal employe who noted the pot lid's particular reflective qualities while helping his wife with the dishes. Harry M. Knarr Jr., superintendent of vehicle maintenance in Sarasota, won the highest award ever given by the post office department for an employe suggestion.

In pilot tests the pot lid mirrors proved highly effective, Pinkerton said, and no children were involved in accidents with postal trucks using the new device.

A Brooklyn, N.Y., manufacturer of pots and pans, U.S. Metal Products Co. Inc., was awarded the contract for 20,000 lids. They are actual pot lids minus the knob. Made of stainless steel, they are eight inches in diameter. They are mounted on the front right-hand side of the trucks with a wrought iron bracket.

The pot lid mirrors have proved so effective that businesses using similar trucks have adopted the idea.

Lung Cancer Deaths Up, Says State Report

Deaths from cancer of the lung in males is increasing in Nebraska, while the death rate from cancer of the uterus is declining.

This is the observation of the statistical report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

During the years 1960-62, 31.8 Nebraska males per 100,000 died from lung cancer compared with only 7 from 1940-44 and 19.4 from 1950-54.

During the 1940-44 period, 22 Nebraska females per 100,000 died from cancer of the uterus compared to 15.6 from 1950-54 and 12.7 from 1960-62.

The report says that the decline in the death rate because of cancer of the uterus is due to improved obstetrical care and the widespread use of the Pap test.

The increase in the death rate due to cancer of the lung in males is due, almost exclusively, to cigaret smoking, the report said.

The report said that the uterine cancer death rate could be close to zero within the next 20 to 30 years, while if the trend continues, cancer of the lung will be responsible for more than 500 Nebraska deaths a year by 1980.

The 2,277 deaths caused by cancer in Nebraska ranked it as the No. 2 killer behind heart diseases which claimed 5,558 lives in 1962.

Pearl Bailey Will Be Star of Negro Broadway Show

Hollywood (AP) — Don Loper, once a magic name on Broadway, is making his first professional return to the main stem since 1941 — and with an all Negro cast.

Pearl

Loper, once a dancer and impresario, was lured to Hollywood by the late Louis B. Mayer and then later turned designer — and millionaire.

"I have designed everything from hotels to women's fashions," says Loper, who also did Frank Sinatra's famed inauguration wardrobe, "but I just got a yearning for the old days of showbusiness.

"I'm teaming with my old partner from the Copacabana, Monte Proser, to put the first all Negro show on Broadway since Lew Leslie's Blackbirds out of which came such stars as Buck and Bubbles, Lena Horne and Pearl Bailey."

Pearlie May, along with Duke Ellington's band, will be the star of Loper's show which is slated to open in Easter of 1964

"We're re-designing Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, re-naming it 'Carrousel' and going to put on a gala every night."

Title of the show is "The Balloon Goes Up."

He chose a theater restaurant type operation over a legitimate theater because "I want Pearlie May to make her entrance through the audience every night to start the show."

One of the other stars will be Pearl Bailey's daughter—who will be four at showtime.

"She is one of seven children, of all races and creeds, adopted by Pearl and her husband, Lou Bellson, and can sing, dance, play the piano like a pro. She's unbelievable," says Loper.

This Is Very Funny Matter

Hollywood (AP)—A comic should have known better but when Peter Sellers first met the team of Panama and Frank, he was told that the producer-director team had started as gag writers for Bob Hope.

"In fact," Sellers was told, "they have probably made more people laugh because of their skill with words than any other writers."

Sellers immediately asked them: "Can you make me laugh?"

Mel Frank looked at him solemnly. "That depends. Are you ticklish?"

Watch Elgin

Hollywood (UPI)—Fans of Los Angeles Lakers basketball star Elgin Baylor can see him in "A Global Affair," starring Bob Hope. Elgin makes his movie debut as a Nigerian delegate to the U.N.

Top Movies of the Week

Nebraska—Starts Friday.

An entire train is hurled to destruction. Radioactive flame burns out entire cities. A mountainside is gouged out and history's most gigantic fictional monsters fight atop Mt. Fuji in this Japanese-made horror movie.

King Kong's about 30 years old now but still in mighty good shape, even if he has eaten some narcotic berries.

'Divorce, Italian Style'

State Attraction.

Marcello Mastroianni, Daniela Rocca and Stefania Sandrelli star in this adult film about a fop who tires of his wife, wants a second, kills the first, takes the second. He's a real go get her.

In between he diligently trowels pomatum on his girlish ringlets and twirls his spaghetti mustache.

'Haunted Palace'

Varsity Attraction.

Vincent Price, Debra Paget and Lon Chaney star in this bit of Poe about a spell-ridden palace with a fearful curse.

A warlock (male witch) puts the curse on an entire community for 100 years after he is burned alive by a mob.

'Condemned of Altona'

Stuart—Starts Friday.

Oscar winners Maximillian Schell and Sophia Loren team, with Schell as a penitent Wehrmacht officer who exiles himself from the world, and Miss Loren as a young wife suddenly thrust into the midst of a strange and terrifying family.

A more mixed-up crowd of post-war (World II) Germans you will not likely find even in your greatest melancholia.

You can visit New Zealand, Australia and New Guinea, tour Israel, live it up at the Dead Sea, drop off at the high cliffs of Acapulco or mush through the berry-filled meadows of Alaska, via film, with little effort.

The Women's Division of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring a travel and adventure series, offering "the world for your viewing."

Films will be at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul Methodist Church. They are:

Sept. 24, "High Adventure With Col. Craig," with peeks at Mexico, Tokyo and the Eiffel tower.

Nov. 3, "Land Down Under," picturesque and breathtaking.

Dec. 3, "Israel," from 3,000 years ago to the present.

Jan. 20, "Lumberjack in Alaska," showing gem-like islands, beautiful inland seas and streams "dark with fish."

Violinist George Liberace, tired, he says, of seeing so many folks getting rooked on phony song-writing deals, has formed George Liberace Songsmiths Inc., Hollywood, Calif., to help new songwriters. George's brother Lee, something of a whiz on the piano, will appear in Lincoln at the Auditorium Oct. 25. Lee can pop, Strauss, twist and symph with equal success.

Why does an elephant wear tennis shoes? So he won't scratch the floor with his cowboy boots when he comes to the Auditorium Oct. 4-6 with the Barnum and Bailey Circus.

No Singing

New York (AP) — Rumer Godden's novel, "A Candle for St. Jude," is being adapted for unusual staging on Broadway by John Patrick.

The show, on David Merrick's production agenda, would utilize a full orchestra and include ballet sequences, but not have any singing.

Slower, Slower

Hollywood (UPI) — Bette Davis has postponed her new English movie, "Faster, Faster," until next year.

U.N. Stamp Will Depict General Assembly Site

The fourth United Nations Commemorative stamp for 1963, to be issued Nov. 4, will be another in the series depicting sites of the U.N. General Assembly.

The four-color stamp shows the United Nations Headquarters in New York, with flags of various member nations in the foreground. It will be issued in denominations of 5-cents and 11-cents, in quantities of 2,650,000 and 2,400,000 respectively.

What Happens to Child Stars Of TV After Options Dropped?

By Bob Thomas

Hollywood (AP) — What happens to child stars in television series after their options have been dropped?

Are they washed up at 10, 13 or 17? A survey shows they seem to do all right, although few regain the fame they knew in their series.

Jay North, "Dennis the Menace," hasn't acted since the series ended. He finished some personal appearance dates then took a Hawaiian holiday last summer. He is going to private school and plans to take occasional acting jobs.

Lee Aker, once the pal of "Rin Tin Tin," is 19 and an assistant location manager for the "Route 66" company.

Eleanor Donahue, eldest daughter in "Father Knows Best," had a season in "The Andy Griffith Show," then dropped out to have a baby. Eleanor, wife of Screen Gems official Harry Ackerman, does guest shots in several series.

Johnny Crawford, Chuck Connor's son in "Rifleman," has been appearing in a western film, "Indian Paint." He plays an Indian.

Lori Martin, the second "National Velvet" girl (Elizabeth Taylor was the first), has been going to school since the series folded. "There isn't much work for a girl my age," laments Lori, now 16. But she did do a "Beaver" and a "Donna Reed" and tested for a movie.

Tony Dow, the older brother of "Leave It to Beaver," has done a "Mr. Novak" and "My Three Sons" and is up for a continuing role in another series.

Jerry Mathers, Beaver himself, has virtually retired at 15. He is in high school and has no acting plans.

Shelley Fabares outgrew the "Donna Reed Show"; the explanation is that she's "away at college." She has done roles in other shows and is pursuing her singing career.

Sherry Jackson, Danny Thomas's daughter when the show was "Make Room for Daddy," developed into a beauty and has graced many television series.

Richard Keith, who played young Ricky in the "I Love Lucy" series, is 12 and has had occasional television roles. He is a buddy of his real-life counterpart, Desi Arnaz IV, and both have made appearances in a kid band. Richard plays the drums. Young Desi? The bongos.

Here is news to make you feel your age. Remember Tommy Rettig, first pal of "Lassie?" Now a free-lancer, he's 21 and father of two.

Palance in New Series

Jack Palance stars as boss of a modern circus in the new series "Greatest Show on Earth" at 8 p.m. Tuesday on KMTV.

Disney's TV Animals Don't Fit The Time-Worn Pet Plot Formula

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

Hollywood (AP) — The boy-meets-girl format is a show business cliche, but an even more rigid form governs the animal story.

That plot recipe reads as follows:

Boy gets pet; pet does something wrong; pet saves someone's life; all is okay.

But that unchanging formula, used literally thousands of times in films and televisions, is carefully avoided in the NBC television shows made by Walt Disney.

Winston Hibler, the producer of Disney's nature stories, is an expert in a special story form that combines film of wild life with a story line which often incorporates humans. It was a logical outgrowth of Disney's old "true-life adventures," some of which were made—often over periods as long as 18 months—in the 1940s. Hibler's film, "Seal Island," made during mating season, was shot 15 years ago but re-broadcast for the umpteeneth time as part of the Sunday night Disney show during the past summer.

Disney nature films are, of course, always on the side of the animals. Recently, a Disney crew has been patiently staked out in the Southern California Hills, photographing coyotes, hardly one of the more lovable species. They will turn up in a television film, however, as a comedy gang of animal toughs called "The Hollywood Boys."

Hibler's technique consists of using two casts of animals. There are the wild animals, captured on film by men who patiently wait in blinds, platforms in trees, in baskets swinging from cranes. (One intrepid photographer covered himself with a bison skin and mingled with a buffalo herd to get close-ups.)

Then, for the story portion, Hibler uses what he calls "controlled" animals — the trained, tame or (more likely) semi-trained.

These two elements are delicately stitched together. But one such film represents a more difficult job than shooting the average hour-long dramatic show. One Disney crew, for example, shot one million feet of film in the far North for a single program. From 150,000 feet shot of the bison herd in Yellowstone National Park, a mere 3,000 feet reached theatres and television screens.

In editing the average television or motion picture, two or three feet of film are thrown out for every foot used," Hibler estimated. "In our nature stories, we use about one foot for every 15 or 20 shot."

American audiences, he has found, identify best with animals they know something about, particularly animals native to this country.

"Cats and dogs are the very best," he conceded. "But almost any animal that looks cute and soft and pettable is a popular subject."

There are exceptions to all generalities: One of his most popular animal heroes was a steer, Pancho.

"We were very lucky there," Hibler said. "Pancho turned out to be more ham than steer. He loved everybody and he loved performing. Sometimes our animal stars are a little more difficult."

By HELEN HAGGIE

It's football season again in NEBRASKAland!

Long before teams began practice, social events were being planned around the games. This is particularly true in Lincoln — not only in the high school set, but especially among adults who arrange their social calendars around the University of Nebraska home game schedule.

Pre-game and post-game parties bulge the list of Capital City events.

Often Milady adores the festivities of football season —but is reluctant to go to the games. She HONESTLY doesn't like to spend the two-plus often uncomfortable, hours watching young gladiators charge up and down a field, indulging in antics that mean nothing to her.

OF COURSE she wants Nebraska to win — but probably the team will play just as well without her presence.

BUT GO SHE MUST — for it is the thing to do — other guests at the luncheon will think her disloyal if she doesn't follow the crowd to the game. Or her husband

Musicals, Comedy, Drama To Appear In Lincoln's Broadway Theatre Series

Musicals, comedy and drama are included in the 1963-64 series of the Broadway Theatre sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Lincoln. The roadshow productions will again make their "one night stands" in Lincoln at the Stuart Theatre.

"A Thousand Clowns," billed as containing a thousand laughs, will be the opening show in Lincoln, Oct. 24. The star of the play is John Ireland.

The serious drama, "Man For All Seasons" will be presented Nov. 13. This is the play which won five Tony awards and the Critics' Circle award last season on Broadway.

"Camelot"—the big Broadway musical extravaganza, is scheduled for Lincoln the evening of January 27, 1964.

Last season's sell-out in New York "A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum" will be a musical comedy treat for the Capital City Apr. 1, 1964.

The Broadway Theatre series, the main money-raising project of the Junior Woman's Club, returns all of its profits to the community for charitable and cultural use. The most recent donation from these funds was the acoustical shell presented by the Junior Woman's Club to the Lincoln Pershing Auditorium.

Other proceeds have gone to the Prescott School hard of hearing unit, Belmont Community Center, LARC School, Family Service Association, Lincoln Symphony Orchestra Association, Lincoln Children's Zoo, Lincoln Community Playhouse, American Field Service, and the Bennett Martin Public Library.

Officers for the Junior Woman's Club are the Mmes. Stuart Maseman, president; Paul D. Kern, vice-president; Dale W. Newman, treas-

Lincoln League of Women Voters Begins 43rd Year at Thursday Orientation Meet

With the opening of the general membership and orientation meeting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Unitarian Church, Lincoln League of Women Voters will begin its 43rd year.

The League, a non-partisan organization, was originally a part of the National American Woman Suffrage Assn. (NAWSA).

In anticipation of the August, 1920, ratification of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution, NAWSA convened in February in Chicago for its final meeting and for the first meeting of the league. Chosen as honorary president of the new organization was Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of NAWSA from 1900 to 1904 and 1915-1920. It was Mrs. Catt who first proposed at the 1919 NAWSA convention in St. Louis that a League of Women Voters be formed.

Among those attending the St. Louis meeting was Mrs. John B. Senning, a Lincolnite, who came back to her home city and helped to form the Lincoln League in 1920.

Over the years the league, whose purpose is to "promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government," has changed very little. It takes action in support of or in opposition to selected governmental issues, but it does not support or oppose candidates or political parties. While it is non-partisan, its members are urged to work as individuals in the political party of their choice.

Lincoln League members who have held or are presently holding public office include Mmes. George Abel,

Miss Judith Peterson Bride of D. B. Stokes

Westminster Presbyterian Church was the setting for the 7:30 p.m. Saturday wedding of Miss Judith G. Peterson and Donald B. Stokes.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul L. Peterson. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stokes of Omaha.

Antique peau de soie fashioned the bride's gown. Elbow sleeves and a Florentine neckline accented the Empire bodice. An encrustment of lace applique circled the wasitline. The controlled skirt featured a vertical display of the lace applique. The applique was repeated on the aisle-wide cotillion train attached by a silk bow.

The bride wore a mantilla edged in lace, and the bridal bouquet was princess style composed of white roses.

will have a particularly difficult temper tantrum if she suggests that HE go on to the game while she sneaks home and takes a nap.

The NU coaching staff members were astounded that some women just don't know enough about football to enjoy it (THEIR wives are all ardent fans); but they patiently took the time to give some pointers on how to be a happy spectator.

Coach Bob Devaney led the discussion — noting that the fundamental aim of a football team is to get the ball across the goal line of its opponent.

"When we have the ball we are on the offense, and when the other team has the ball we are on the defense—it's as simple as that," NU's football head man smiled.

1. Be on time or a little early for the game. (One thing that seems to madden husbands is loitering wives who cause arrival after the first kick-off.)

A profound silence indicated the coaches' deep shock at the idea that anyone would be late for a football game, and there was a great shaking of heads.

Coach Devaney said, "If you come in late you walk in front of other fans who are trying to watch the play.

"But seriously, it's much more interesting to watch the game if you arrive early enough to see the numbers of the players on the field and identify them."

2. Know the numbers of the players. Theoretically, each position has certain numbers—quarterbacks from 10 to 19; halfbacks, 20-39; fullbacks, 40-49. Linemen wear jerseys numbered in these ranges: centers 50-59; guards, 60-69; tackles, 70-79, and ends 80-89.

(Then WHY was Bob Hohn wearing 18 when his picture appeared in one of the daily papers was the next feminine question.)

NU coaches DO have lots of patience and Mike Corgan explained. "Sometimes there are not enough numbers of the particular bracket for all men playing the position—so other backfield numbers are assigned to backfield players. This can happen in the line, too.

"Usually, ends who have no number left in their bracket are assigned backfield numbers—because ends and backfield players are eligible to receive forward passes and linemen are not."

3. Know the officials' signals and their meanings. They're in the official program.

4. Know which goal your team is defending. There are four quarters and at the end of each, the teams change goals.

5. Backfield players carry the ball. Linemen try to open holes for their own ball carriers and stop the advance of opposing ball carriers.

And for those who know ABSOLUTELY NOTHING about football, Coach Devaney said: "A team has four tries or downs to make 10 yards, called a first down. If at the end of the third try it doesn't appear the team can make the 10 yards, a punt (kick) of the ball down field to the opposing team is usually the play."

6. Dress for the game—not for a style show. Coach John Melton said many spectators didn't like to go to football games because they were too cold or warm, depending on the weather. (AND don't forget, whether you wear lots of warm clothing on cold days or light clothing on warm ones, the truly chic color combination at NU's stadium is scarlet and cream!)

7. There are two kick-offs at every game — more if either team scores. But ALWAYS the game opens with a kick-off, and the second half opens with a kick-off.

Some of the thrills of football occur during the kick-off. A member of the receiving team gallops down the field to his own goal in a spectacular run — or fumbles the ball close to the enemy's goal. (Another reason husbands are adamant on arriving on time for the game, suggests Coach Cletus Fischer.

8. Learn some of the fundamental plays of your team—both offensive and defensive. Remember the quarterback is the field general of the team carrying the ball.

Coach George Kelly quipped, "A football game gives every woman a chance to second-guess someone besides her husband!"

9. Scoring of the game goes like this: In a touchdown (when the ball crosses the goal line, either carried by a player or passed from one player to a member of his team) 6 points are scored. After a touchdown the scoring team has a chance to make an extra point by kicking the ball between the goal posts and above the crossbar; or two points by crossing the goal on the ground.

A field goal is a play sometimes used when the offensive team has a down or more left and is within kicking distance of the goal post. The quarterback may call for kicking the ball between the goal posts and over the crossbars—instead of running the ball over the goal line. Three points are scored.

10. For real thrills look for passes during the game. A skeptical look apparently crossed the face of this reporter.

"When a backfield man drops way back of his line—look down the field to see if one of his teammates has rushed down to receive the ball when it is thrown," explained Coach Jim Ross.

As the coaching staff trooped out to the practice field, Coach Devaney said:

"I can't understand why every woman wouldn't like to go to football games. WHERE ELSE can a person go for $4 and criticize so many people???"

LINCOLN DIARY

Monday: An elevator for their home was the 55th wedding anniversary present that Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hoppe Sr. gave each other. Delighting in the "household gadget" even more than the Hoppes were the small fry in the neighborhood who have been ringing the doorbell to ride up and down.

• • •

Tuesday: A 349th birthday party Seven Chaffee sisters decided that birthdays are less awe-inspring if celebrated together, all at once each year. This year THE OCCASION was duly noted at the Lincoln Hotel with "happy birthday" being sung seven times. The sisters celebrating were Mmes. Harrell Piper of Chariton, Ia.; Walter Schrader of Hiawatha, Kan.; Leo Cain of Overland Park, Kan.; Mrs. John Geistlinger, Jerry Quinn, Miriam Kowrack, Miss Marcella Chaffee, and their mother Mrs. Stella Chaffee. The combined ages of the seven sisters present was 349 years!

Wednesday: Quotes from the "peanut gallery" concern two very young TV addicts who were watching "Third Man." The grade-schooler turned to his younger brother saying, "I sure like that Harry Lime." Not to be out done, the pre-schooler announced "And I'd like a fuzzy peach".

Thursday: He's in his 30's, and he can spell—but you'd never know it from the way his wife treats him. That's what friends of a Lincoln couple found out Thursday night when they joined the pair for the husband's birthday celebration at the Legionnaire Club. The wife had arranged for a birthday cake to be delivered to the table, and became anxious . . . in a confidential but clearly-heard tone, she reminded the waitress: "Don't forget the C-A-K-E."

• • •

Friday: This is a cat tale. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Corey, their two children and one dog arrived in Lincoln enroute from Calif. to Detroit . . . very unhappy over the loss from their car of two cats. It seems that the cats deserted camp during a stop in Oregon. The children were comforted with the assurance that the sad (to them) loss had been duly reported to the forest ranger with instructions to send the pets on should they be foudn. A telegram to Lincoln reports that the cats arrived by air in Detroit two days ahead of the Coreys.

Towers Fill With Students

One of the first to move into the University of Nebraska's new $4 million student housing complex, Miss Georgia Ludwick, a pretty, 18-year-old scholarship winner from Weeping Water, perched on a study desk in her 13th-floor room.

Through the window she had an excellent view of the Cornhusker campus.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ludwick, Georgia is assigned to the top floor of Cather Hall, one of the two new twin towers. She is a Regents scholarship winner, a member of the National Honor Society and ranked second in her high school class.

Miss Frances Holman, resident director, helped Georgia move into her new room and will spend this weekend helping hundreds of others move into theirs. All of the rooms, she said, were spoken for before the Cather and Pound Halls were completed.

The complex consists of three interconnecting buildings — a central, two-story structure and two wing dormitories. The facilities, now used for both men and women, will eventually house only women.

The central building consists of large recreation areas, a lounge, storage rooms, public lavatories, a service area, loading docks, two large dining areas, a central kitchen and cafeteria service area.

The lower floors of the towers include lounges, complete mailing centers, and living accomodations for the resident director and her assistants.

Contract Bridge

Eye for the Future Bridge Player's Asset

By HOWARD SCHENKEN AND RICHARD L. FREY

Looking into the future and predicting the course of coming events may seem like magic in everyday life, but it is a regular preoccupation of the bridge player. South had to exercise considerable foresight on this deal He saw that normal play of drawing trumps would leave him stranded in dummy with no good lead.

Opening lead. Heart jack

After the one no trump response, South tried for a game contract without feeling any certainty. His jump to 3 spades was simply encouraging and showed that he had a good 6-card suit and hopes of game.

An intelligent alternative would have been two no trump, because the solid spade suit would be a powerful asset in a no trump contract. North would continue to three no trump and make it for a strange reason After the lead of the diamond queen, West eventually finds himself winning the 3rd diamond trick with the 5-spot. If the diamond 5 and 4 were interchanged, 3 no trump would be defeated.

North accepts any invitation to game because he has a near-maximum response of one no trump. Against 4 spades, West leads the heart jack, and declarer has to plan carefully.

As there is no prospect of a ruff in dummy, the obvious play is to take the first trick with the heart ace and draw trumps. But this leads to defeat, because when declarer leads a club to dummy's queen, he has no good continuation from dummy, and eventually loses a heart, a club and two diamonds.

The winning play is to take the heart lead with the ace and lead a club, with or without cashing one round of trumps. West ducks the club lead, but declarer can lead a trump from dummy and draw trumps. Then he leads the second club from his hand and a club trick is set

Lincoln League of Women Voters Begins 43rd Year of Public Service

U.S. Senator; Fern Hubbard Orme, State Senator; Roscoe Hill, member of the Board of Education; and M. G. Boosalis, City Councilwoman.

Mrs. Wallace Peterson, president of the Lincoln League, likes to stress that because of the way the league is constituted it is an "excellent training ground for political servants."

In Lincoln the league is divided into 8 units, meeting in small groups to discuss and act on specific issues and problems on local, state and national levels.

When a position is reached through consensus of membership (such as the league-sponsored full-time mayor plan recently adopted by Lincoln voters), the league works to implement the position by testifying at public hearings, use of public forums, panel discussions, league publications and letters to public officials.

Year-round the league supplies citizens with factual information such as how and where to register to vote, but it is at election time that the league is most active. It is then that the state and local organizations publish the Voters Guide, two factual, non-partisan publications — one on state issues and candidates and the other on local issues and candidates.

Keep Current

League membership also conducts candidates meetings and works to get out the vote. When an election is not imminent the membership is kept current on political issues through the discussions at the unit meetings which are held September through May.

The issues discussed, local, state and national, are selected by the membership and divided into two categories: current agenda and continuing responsibilities.

According to the Lincoln League's 1963-64 hand book the local agenda is to "continue to promote sound policies for the development and application of the Lancaster metropolitan regional plan."

On the state agenda are "evaluation of methods and areas of constitutional change with emphasis on reapportionment" and "state fiscal management." The national agenda includes "continued support of the United Nations and an evaluation of means to strengthen that system under present-day conditions" and "continued support of U.S. policies to promote world economic development and an evaluation of opportunities to expand regional cooperation."

Voting Age

Membership in the League of Women Voters is open to any woman citizen of voting age. In Lincoln there are about 200 members. More information about the league can be obtained by attending the Thursday orientation or by contacting the membership chairman, Mrs. M. G. Magnussen. Guest speaker at the 9:30 a.m. meeting at the Unitarian Church will be State Senator Fern Hubbard Orme.

In addition to Mrs. Peterson, other officers of the Lincoln LWV include Mmes. D. H. Pinkerton, first vice president; J. M. Daly, second vice president; Walter Elwell, secretary, and Joseph Soshnik.

Durante's New Album Imparts Sad Feeling

As far back as many people in show business can remember, Jimmy Durante has always been the carefree but boisterous singer with a sadistic peeve against the flimsy piano.

It's all an act, of course, but Jimmy likes to tear apart a piano literally as well as figuratively and this is always good for a laugh.

Since Jimmy is the most beloved gentlemen of entertainment, it is hoped he has not made a mistake in recording "September Song, The New Jimmy Durante" for Warner Bros.

Sentimental Songs

Here is a group of sentimental songs, such as the title number. Jimmy sings each of them well, but in doing so he imparts a feeling of sadness, that the indestructible Jimmy at last is getting old, rusty and mildewed.

Also it has the unpleasant after-effect of making those who have followed Jimmy since his "I Can Do Without Broadway," "Inka Dinka Doo" and I'll Do the Strut-a-Way in My Cut-a-Way" days feel they are getting old, too.

Man of Destiny

Leonard Bernstein should be a man of destiny if only because he is a longhaired musician who also is a cool cat.

The current occupants of the White House and other devotees of classical music, including television watchers, know Bernstein as the skillful conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

And those who wouldn't want to be found dead near Carnegie Hall have taken a hankering to Lennie because he is equally adept in composing popular music, such as "West Side Story" and "Wonderful Town."

Sultan of Sound

It is the lighter side of Maestro Bernstein, if anyone every calls him that, that appeals to Enoch Light, the thus-far unchallenged Sultan of Sound.

Light, who is a perfectionist, decided he would produce an LP devoted exclusively to Lennie's Broadway musicals because Enoch was unable to find any previous recording of this sort.

He got together Roberta Peters, Alfred Drake, the Ray Charles Singers and his own orchestra. The end product was "Alfred Drake and Roberta Peters Sing the Popular Music of Leonard Bernstein" (Command RS835SD).

Selections include numbers from "West Side Story," "Candide," "On the Town" and "Wonderful Town." One of the best tunes is "Gee, Officer Krupke" from "West Side Story" but there are other great songs, too.

Robert Frost Mirrored in Letters

The Letters of Robert Frost to Louis Untermeyer. With commentary by Louis Untermeyer; Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

The old saw about the eyes being the mirror of the soul is just that. A man's letters are a much truer reflection.

These of craggy poet Robert Frost to his dear friend of nearly half a century, anthologist Louis Untermeyer, are without qualification some of the most rewarding reading one is likely to encounter in a lifetime.

Whatever place he may be accorded in the world of literature, Frost was a man of heroic emotions and intellect, zesty wit and a razor-sharp sensitivity to the world in which he lived.

So intimate, so unabashed in sentiment are these letters that he would permit their publication only posthumously. It is a jewel in the crown of Untermeyer that he preserved them intact that others might meet the man behind them.

The only poet to win the Pulitzer Prize four times, Frost was nevertheless so jealous of his privacy that his personal life remained somewhat of an unknown quantity.

It was a life not without its agonies. A sister and a daughter were mentally disturbed to the point of requiring institutionalization; a depressed son committed suicide after threatening his father's life; a beloved daughter succumbed to a raging infection following the birth of a girl; his adored wife died shortly before the couple's 50th anniversary date.

It was also a life of uncertainties . . . his farming ventures never paid; his 40 years as a teacher were not ones of fulfillment for him.

Though intellectually secure, he shrank from the normal social relations with others on the Amherst faculty. He noted that he never said one of his poems to a class there . . . "no one ever asked me."

Yet his letters sparkle with a humor both erudite and earthy. And for funning, he took to punning . . . If he missed any golden opportunities, they escaped this reader.

Frost was scorned by many scholars and fellow authors as being illiterate in the contemporary field. Not so, these letters reveal. Not only was he well versed in what others were writing, but he reveled in peppery, private critiques of their efforts to friend Untermeyer.

Among those who fared not so well in his estimation was Idahoan Ezra Pound, of whom Frost said "He ought to be called the Greater Garbler," surely a pun of super-colossal cinematic proportions. Nebraska's Willa Cather, on the other hand, earned his utmost admiration.

Of poetry he said, "A poem is never a put up job . . . It begins as a lump in the throat, a sense of wrong, a homesickness, a lovesickness."

Free verse to him was tennis with the net down. Literature was "words that have become deeds."

City Desk Love Songs

Gally, Gally. By Ben Hecht; Doubleday.

The Love Everybody Crusade. By Arthur Hoppe; Doubleday.

Newspapering, highly personalized newspapering, is spread before the reader in these two efforts. If nothing else, they demonstrate how sharply major public concerns have changed in but one generation.

Ben Hecht needs no introduction. Novelist, playwright, screen writer, man of 20th Century American letters, religionist, Hecht began his professional writing career as a teen-age Chicago newspaper reporter.

"Gally, Gally" wears the subtitle of a cub reporter's memoirs. For the fledgling reporter then, life and the world was a different place than we find it today.

"There had been no world wars. No national ideals had yet beamed on us with their death's head grin. The young century wore a merry, untaxed look. People could get rich without cheating the government. And the nation was able to enjoy the blessings of democracy without going nearly bankrupt trying to cram them down every other nation's throat."

It was, or so it seemed, a carnival sort of atmosphere. We sober-sided government-oriented newsmen today might contempuously—and maybe rightly—call it shallow.

Hoppe proves it's still possible to have fun in the newspapering craft (leave the "profession" bit for those who insist on feeling inferior.)

The San Francisco Chronicle columnist zeroes his flame throwers of satires on personalities from Just Plain Jack to Dr. Fred Schwarz—"Better Fred Than Red."

It isn't likely Nebraskans are apt to read Hoppe's essays elsewhere unless they get the Chronicle or his book. We aren't a breed much given to self-examination or self-directed laughter.

The title essay, comprising half the book, was written more than 30 years ago and is often credited with having started the present popular discussion of religion and psychology.

Fromm traces the history of Christianity up to the time of the Nicene Council when it became the official religion of the Roman Empire.

His central argument is that Christianity changed from a religion of the poor and oppressed to one reformulated by the ruling class. The decisive element, he says, was the change in the dogma of Christ from the idea of man becoming God to that of God becoming man.

NU Fans May Outdo Paris in Scarlet and Cream

No fashion authority from Paris, New York or California has so decreed—but rather the Extra Point Club.

The move to have every man, woman and child wear red and white and create a splash of color in the stands at all games "will give the team a boost," says Charles Roach Jr., president, who spearheaded the drive.

The idea is not new. It has even happened in the blase world of professional sports. Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, requested that fans wear green and gold to the opening game.

Handsome red sport coats, appropriate for the game as well as postgame parties; parkas of plastic for wet afternoons, hooded to give complete protection; light and heavy weight sport shirts; sweaters in all weights and styles, ties and mufflers are eye catchers in men's wear departments.

Members of the weaker sex will find ravishing wool suits of red; fake-fur parkas; rain gear in all price and style ranges; beautifully styled skirts teamed with well tailored blouses and handsome sweaters, as well as accessories of hats, purses, gloves, scarves and shoes.

See you in Scarlet!

Nebraska Wesleyan displayed unbelievable poise and polish for an opening football game and used it to good advantage, posting a rare 20-13 victory over Midland Saturday night at O. N. Magee Stadium.

Looking nothing like a team that had won only twice in three seasons, the Plainsmen refused to buckle after seeing a 7-0 lead turn into a 13-7 deficit midway in the second period.

With visions of past performances goading them on, the Plainsmen stormed back on top, 14-13, thanks mainly to the sparkling individual efforts of quarterback Mike Slatinsky and fullback Dave Newlon.

Bill Rohrig gobbled up four and Slatinsky lost one and the Plainsmen faced a big down. They had what it took. Slatinsky found Dennis Quick open at the 16 and hit him with a perfect strike for a first down at that point.

An offsides penalty moved it to the 11 from where Newlon banged to the eight. Slatinsky and Newlon then took turns whacking at the line with Newlon packing it the final yard. Willis Wiesbrook converted and Wesleyan had all the points it needed.

But the Plainsmen didn't quit. Slatinsky really warmed up after the half and engineered an explosive 93-yard drive that took just 13 plays. Slatinsky ripped off 21 and 16 yard runs in the march and eventually scored from the one. A pass for the extra Omaha — Creighton Prep's aggressive defense shackled the Lincoln High attack and gave the Junior Jays a 14-0 victory Saturday night.

Prep got its first touchdown with just two seconds left in the first quarter. Starting on the Lincoln High 42 they rammed over in six plays. The clincher was a one-yard smash by Sam Buda, a 241-pound junior fullback. Big gain in the drive was a 15-yard penalty against the Links for grabbing a face mask.

Jim O'Brien's 53-yard punt which was downed by Dave Bouda on the Lincoln High two was instrumental in setting up the touchdown. Lincoln High gained three yards in two plays then Frank Brill kicked out to the 42.

Lincoln High penetrated to the Prep 34 in the third quarter but Larry Goldstone fumbled as he swept right end and Ed Militti scooped up the ball and raced to the Lincoln High 11 before Dennis Wertz hauled him down.

The only excitement for Lincoln High the rest of the game was Brill's booming punts shortly after the second Prep touchdown. The Links stalled on the 35 and the snap back to Brill went over his head. He recovered the ball on the 15 and drove a low kick to the Prep 15.

Lincoln High now has a 1-1 record in the Intercity League and will host Omaha North Friday at Seacrest Field.

Beman Captures Second Amateur Golf Title, 2-1

Des Moines, Iowa (AP) — Clock-steady Deane Beman defeated an erratic Dick Sikes 2 and 1 Saturday in a tense 36-hole final for the United States Amateur Golf Championship.

The 25-year-old Bethesda, Md., insurance man, never flustered despite a puny drive that cost him the first hole, annexed his second national title mainly because of a five-hole winning streak that started late in the morning round and carried over into the afternoon.

However, it was his trusty putter that brought him a birdie on the 32nd hole from 18 feet and closed any chances that Sikes might have had of staging a late rally.

The five-hole surge lifted Beman from 3 down to 2 up over Sikes, the National Collegiate king from Arkansas, who eight times drove off the fairway before lunch and then fought a balky putter most of the way in the day's second trip over the wooded hills of the Wakonda Club's 6,896 yards.

Beman first won the U.S. Amateur in 1960, a year after he had taken the British title. Since his 1959 triumph overseas, the stocky, father of three daughters has been the low amateur in the 1962 U.S. open, played on three Walker Cup teams, three America's Cup teams and two world amateur squads.

The restless Sikes, who charges from tee to green like a fireman answering a general alarm, looked headed for a runaway before Beman started his five-hole rally on the 15th by sinking a 10-foot birdie putt.

Beman cut his deficit by another hole on the 16th when the former Public Links champion missed the green and lost to a par. Beman stuck a No. 6 iron shot 30 inches from the flag for a birdie deuce on No. 17, and then wedged one to eight feet from the hole on the 18th for a birdie three that gave him a 1-up edge before they went to lunch.

When play was resumed, Sikes sent his second on the 19th over the green and the ball rolled down the steep incline into a pocket in a gravel path below. A study of the rule book showed that it was not a hazard and the slender Arkansan chopped out, the ball going only half way up the slope.

Sikes' desperate try for a par from the uphill lie was short and Beman posted a calm par for another winner. That made Beman's edge 2 up. But Deane missed the green with his approach on the 24th and Sikes drew even on the 26th when he knocked in a 13-foot downhill putt for a birdie.

Top Husker Units Tough to Handle

By HAL BROWN

Nebraska football followers were shown Saturday that the top two Husker units could score a lot of points against the less highly-regarded gridders.

They also saw that the top ranking Scarlet and Cream gridders were capable of stopping any offensive movements by the third and fourth units most of the time.

These were the conclusions one could make from watching the Reds whip the Whites, 47-19, Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium in the final tuneup before the season opener next Saturday against South Dakota State.

Husker coach Bob Devaney, although noting that Saturday's scrimmage was an improvement over past performances this fall, still was not elated.

"We are still making a lot of errors and are still not ready to play a good game," he observed.

Devaney said he was pleased by the showing of the alternate unit which, "was better both on offense and defense than the first unit," and by the individual performances of quarterbacks Fred Duda and Doug Tucker, halfback Maynard Smidt, fullback Bernie McGinn and ends Chuck Doepke and John Koinzan.

The two squads were divided so unevenly that the Reds built a 33-0 margin by halftime and hadn't allowed the Whites a first down.

Three of the five first-half-TDs came on defense as the Reds were held to 76 yards rushing in the first two periods. However, Dennis Claridge and Fred Duda completed four of five pass attempts for 99 yards to help the total offense figure.

Duncan Drum grabbed the ball in the air and raced 16 yards into the end zone.

Then with only 15 seconds gone in the second quarter, Willie Ross, making his first appearance in a week, took a punt at his own 43-yard line and twisted his way down the west sideline for a touchdown run of 57 yards.

The Reds scored twice more before the half.

Duda climaxed a 67-yard drive for the fourth Red touchdown late in the half when the sophomore quarterback went over on a keeper from seven yards away.

A 41-yard pass from Duda to Ted Vactor that moved the ball from the Red 29 to the White 30 was the key play in the drive.

Thirty seconds later Theisen slipped in and out of several tacklers' grasps as he scooted 51 yards down the east sideline with a punt to wrap up the first half scoring.

Down 33-0, the Whites came back in the second half to score as soon as they got the ball.

The White team, with Tucker directing the offense, took a short punt on the Red 42 and after an offsides penalty had set them back to the 17 and two plays gained only four yards, Tucker teamed with Smidt for a 39 yard pass.

The aerial play gave the Whites their first first down of the contest and put them

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher

Sunday Sports Columnist

It is unfortunate the collegiate football rules committee can not legislate ethics. If this ostrich-like group which huddled under some sandy beach and produced the new substitution rule could do this, Nebraska would likely have even a better shot at the Big Eight Conference football championship.

But since ethics can not be regulated, one of Nebraska's trumps may turn out to be worthless.

The trump is Dennis Claridge, the talented veteran quarterback who will run the Cornhusker attack.

Sophs, Sophs Everywhere

"I wish everyone would abide by the rule (not to coach from the sidelines)," Cornhusker coach Bob Devaney said. "We feel that it would be an advantage for us. We have a quarterback who can call the plays."

Devaney was not knocking the other quarterbacks in the league by any means. But it is simple logic that a senior quarterback, particularly of Claridge's ilk, can do a much better job of running the show than a first year man.

In fact, aside from Nebraska, only Oklahoma State and Kansas State are expected to open Sept. 21 with senior to quarterback.

Mavity Wouldn't Count

Oklahoma State has Mike Miller, the Big Eight's leading passer of last season and Kansas State has Larry Corrigan.

Colorado could open with Leon Mavity who is a senior, but in as much as he's been a halfback all of his career, this would hardly count in so far as effectiveness is concerned.

If Mavity doesn't make the grade in time the Buffs will use junior Frank Cesarek who divided time with Larry Ethridge last season. Ethridge did not return because of scholastic difficulties.

Iowa State has sophomore Ken Bunte running first right now ahead of junior Larry Switzer. Bunte, a strong passer, is expected to stay in front. Dave Hoppmann pulled most of the quarterbacking duties a year ago.

Talented, But Inexperienced

Missouri has senior Daryl Krugman, who is expected to play only defense because of a bad knee, and junior Mike Jones, who didn't letter last season. But the Tigers also have sophomore Gary Lane and he has the talent to be a good one.

Kansas may have the best prospect of the bunch in sophomore Steve Renko. A fullback in high school, Renko has unlimited physical capabilities, but that wouldn't help him much as calling signals. He is backed by Sid Micek, a journeyman junior from Scottsbluff.

Oklahoma could conceivably open with junior Bobby Page, but the real talent is elsewhere in three sophomores — Mike Ringer, John Hammond and Tommy Pennell.

Pannell would come as close to getting it done as any sophomore in the league. But he still isn't Dennis Claridge.

Latest Cardinal Hero Is Bullpen Ace Taylor

Burdette Confident Redbirds Can Catch 1st-Place Dodgers

St. Louis (AP) —Another victory and another hero.

That's the way it's been with the St. Louis Cardinals ever since they embarked on their stretch fear three weeks ago that turned a runaway race into another of those typical National League finishes.

Saturday's hero in the St. Louis victory, a 3-2 squeaker over Milwaukee, was Ron Taylor, one of the Cards' lesser lights who has spent most of the season in the bullpen.

The 26-year-old Canadian, honor graduate from the University of Toronto, took over from starter Bob Gibson in the ninth inning with Braves on third and first and nobody out. He came through, retiring three batters without permitting either of the runners to advance.

"It gave me the biggest thrill I've ever had in baseball," the perspiring Taylor said as he received congratulations from his teammates.

"I knew I couldn't afford to let any of those guys hit the ball out of the infield, so I concentrated on keeping the ball low and away.

He got Dennis Menke to pop up, struck out Ty Cline and then got Frank Bolling on a force out.

It was the Cardinals' 17th victory in the last 18 games, but they still trail the first place Los Angeles Dodgers by 2½. The Dodgers defeated the Phillies in Philadelphia, 5-1.

"We'll win this thing," said Lew Burdette, the veteran right-hander who will pitch one of the games in Sunday's doubleheader against his former teammates. Left-hander Ray Sadecki will pitch the other. They will be opposed by southpaws Bob Hendley and Denny Lemaster.

"After tomorrow we'll be one behind," Burdette said confidentially. "Then we'll have those Dodgers in our back yard. That's what we've been waiting for."

The Dodgers come in for a three game series Monday.

The only sign of nervousness among the players was shown by Curt Simmons, who pitched a masterful five-hit shutout over the Braves Friday night — his third straight shutout.

"These games are making me old," said the 34-year-old lefthander. "I don't now if my heart can take it."

The Cardinals have been engaged in 17 one-run decisions in the last month, and they've won 15.

Manager Johnny Keane hid any anxiety behind a cigar which he puffed at confidently.

"This was the toughest spot we've been in in a long time," he said. "I mean this late in a game. But the boys battled it through."

"Keane singled out Taylor for special praise.

"Ron didn't surprise me with his fine relief job," he said. "He's been in a number of spots just like this one and he's pitched out of all of them."

Husker Band To Lack Depth For Opener

Having a Cornhusker football game prior to opening of classes presents a special problem for the director of the University of Nebraska marching band Prof. Jack Snider.

He promised that a band will be on hand for the opening game next Saturday "but we won't have a lot of depth."

Snider said to bring the marching band to full strength of 135 will require the recruitment of about 40 new members.

"We will start auditioning Monday, Sept. 16, and continue for three days at the department of music," he said. "By the time Saturday comes, we may still have some empty uniforms. Meanwhile, I'm going to be very pleased to meet entering freshmen who have had band experience."

Rabbits Notch 9-6 Win

Great Falls, Mont. (AP)—Striking fast for a touchdown late in the final period, the South Dakota State Jackrabbits took a 9-6 non-conference football victory Saturday night from the Montana State Bobcats.

More than 6,000 fans saw South Dakota's quarterback Doug Peterson fade to midfield from the 35-yard line and flip a sharp pass to end Darrel Tramp on the 30. Tramp took to the sidelines and with a key block by halfback Wayne Rassmussen went untouched into the end zone.

South Dakota drew first blood when Douglas, with quarterback Bob Webbenhurst holding, hit an angled 21-yard field goal to put the Jackrabbits in front 3-0 late in the first quarter.

The Bobcats dominated the second quarter and scored in the fina minute. Quarterback Ken Christison hit halfback Terry Merro in the end zone with 56 seconds on the clock. The play covered 30 yards.

Christison's pass conversion attempt to Will Fennal was not good and the half ended 6-3 for MSC.

South Dakota dominated the second half and only once did the Bobcats seriously threaten. Midway in the final period, Christison sparked an MSC drive from its 15 to the South Dakota 5-yard line. A first and goal situation with two minutes and 52 seconds left failed with a fumble on the first play.

on the Red four-yard line. Tucker then carried the ball over on the next play. The PAT kick by Kelly Peterson was blocked and the Reds still led by 33-6.

Duda then directed the Reds to a third quarter touchdown, covering 54 yards, all of it on the ground. Ross fought his way for a 12-yarder to put the ball on the two-yard line and Gene Young bulled over for the tally.

When Ted Vactor booted the extre point, his fourth in five tries, the Reds held a 40-6 lead as some of the estimated corwd of 3,000 started moving toward the exits.

The final quarter saw the Whites outscore the Reds, 13-7, with Tucker hitting Smidt for 12 yards and Tucker running four yards for the two White scores.

The final Red tally came from the one-yard line with Ted Wright plunging the final yard.

Claridge had moved the Reds downfield for the final score via the airways. He hit Jeter with a 14-yarder, Theisen with a 17-yard pass and then his second pass of the drive to Jeter was broken up at the one-yard line, but officials ruled pass interference against Ron Poggemeyer, setting up the final TD.

The Reds completed 9 of 18 pass attempts while the Whites hit on only four of 17.

Don McDermott was the only serious injury coming from the scrimmage. The Husker guard suffered a strained knee and ankle and will be out for an indefinite period, according to Husker trainers.

Kent McCloughan did not suit up as coaches didn't want to take a chance on aggravating a charley horse that hit the Broken Bow speedster in Wednesda scrimmage.

The Huskers will now go to one-a-day drills this week as they begin final tune-ups for the opener Saturday at Memorial Stadium against South Dakota State.

Atlanta (AP) — Georgia Tech kept its string of 37 consecutive home opening football victories intact Saturday, beating the Florida Gators, 9-0, in the nationally televised first major college game of the season in a cold, steady rain.

Tech's strong defense kept the Gators bottled up in their own territory most of the game. Florida's deepest penetration was to Tech's 30 at the start of the second half.

Quarterback Billy Lothridge, Tech's "Mr. Do-It-All," booted a 35-yard field goal with 3:30 remaining in the first half. Halfback Joe Auer drove over from the 9-yard line with 5:35 seconds remaining in the third period. Lothridge missed the extra point.

Tech's powerful defense held the Gators to minus five yards rushing. The Gators also were hurt badly by several crucial 15-yard penalties.

Midland, with Jerry Vickery at the helm, took the ensuing kickoff and marched from its 33 to the Wesleyan five-yard line. But on the five, at the end of a 15-yard scamper, Vickery fumbled to Neal.

Midland didn't get another first down and was never in Wesleyan territory, much to the pleasure of the 6,000 fans who were the guests of a food company which bought out the stadium.

Slatinsky climaxed a short drive, set up by a pass interception by Dwight Tietjen, by hitting Boyd Sankey with an eight-yard pass. He also passed to John Kerrey for the extra point after a missed kick attempt and a five-yard penalty.

Little Lonnie Allen fired Midland to two quick touchdowns, though, to end any thoughts of a rout. Passing neatly to Bruce Green and Maury Prauner and utilizing the running of slashing Larry Stednitz, Allen produced Midland touchdowns on their last possession of the first quarter and their first possession of the second quarter. The first one actually came seconds into the second period.

Newlon led Wesleyan rushers with 88 yards while Slatinsky had 70. Stednitz, who did an excellent job of punting, paced Midland ground gainers with 65 yards.

Ward 1st In Hoosier 100 Race

Indianapolis (AP) — Rodger Ward showed a big hometown crowd one of his most masterful driving performances Saturday in a record-smashing victory in the $51,850 Hoosier Hundred Auto Race over the Indiana State Fairgrounds mile track.

The 42-year-old former fighter pilot earned the No. 1 starting spot with a one mile qualifying run at 103.986 miles per hour and he led the entire race at average 93.545.

The victory, worth $16,725, was Ward's 23rd on the national big car championship circuit since World War II and put him far ahead of any other active driver.

Don Branson of Champaign, Ill., another veteran, finished second, 16 seconds back of Ward.

A. J. Foyt of Houston passed another Texan, Johnny Rutherford of Fort Worth, three laps from the finish to take third place.

Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., finished fifth behind Rutherford.

Houston (AP) — Tony Banfield made a game-saving pass interception in the closing seconds Saturday night as the Houston Oilers used the kicking and passing of George Blanda for a 20-14 American Football League victory over the Denver Broncos.

Banfield intercepted a Frank Tripucka pass at the Houston seven as the Broncos were threatening seriously to shove across a second final period touchdown.

Houston had built its 20-7 lead on field goals of 18 and 48 yards by Blanda, an 18-yard pass intercception return by Freddie Glick, and a nine-yard touchdown pass from Blanda to Willard Dewveall.

Charlie Mitchell, a rookie speedster from Washington, gave Denver a temporary 7-3 lead, however, with a spectacular 90-yard kickoff return after Blanda's first field goal.

Dallas (AP) — Charley Johnson's passing, Bill Triplett's running, a 58-yard dash with an intercepted pass by Jimmy Hill and Dallas mistakes gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 34-7 victory in an opening National Football League game Saturday night.

The Cowboys drew first blood, scoring a touchdown in the second quarter as Don Meredith found the passing range. He threw for 49 yards in a 69-yard march, with the payoff a 15-yarder to Pettis Norman.

But from there on Dallas had little chance with the hard-running Cardinals, guided by Johnson, who chipped in with some crucial runs himself.

St. Louis jammed 20 points into the second period with Bakken's 43-yard field goal coming first after Johnson had sent the Cards 42 yards.

As soon as St. Louis got the ball again it went ahead with a 79-yard drive, a screen pass from Johnson to Triplett that ate up 38 yards getting the surge going. A 30-yard dash by Triplett got the ball to the Dallas two and Joe Childress finally ran a yard around right end for a touchdown.

St. Louis made it 17-7 when Hill intercepted the Meredith pass and ran to an easy touchdown. With two seconds left in the half, St. Louis scored again as Baken booted his 45-yarder.

A short kick by Sam Baker set St. Louis up in business in the third period Johnson's 14-yard pass to Bobby Joe Conrad and a 14-yard run by Johnson got most of the distance. Dallas was penalized to its four-yard line for roughing the passer then Johnson passed to Conrad for the score

Johnson passed for 133 yards and Triplett ran for 82 as the big guns of the St. Louis offense.

Vet Netter Nips Osuna In Thriller

Fort Worth, Tex (AP)—Ham Richardson upset U S singles champion Rafael Osuna Saturday and gained the finals of the Colonial National Invitation Tennis tournament against Chuck McKinley.

Richardson, at 31 only semi-active on the tennis circuit, battled to a 2-6, 6-3, 10-8 victory over the Mexican Davis Cup star

Osuna, the No. 2 seed behind McKinley, held match point six times in the final set and six times Richardson rallied brilliantly.

McKinley crushed fourth-seeded Antonio Palafox of Mexico, 6-2, 6-3

The 22-year-old Wimbledon champion, who spent the morning in a whirlpool bath to sooth an aching back, broke the Mexican Davis Cupper's service in the second game of the first set and coasted on in to the final berth

A near-capacity crowd of 1,500 gave the third-seeded Richardson and Osuna a standing ovation after the tall Dallas belter clinched the match with a smooth backhand into the corner beyond Osuna's reach.

Osuna, pin-pointing his volleys deftly, swept through the first set with ease and then Richardson, finding the range with his sizzling service, took the second set in somewhat of a breeze

It set the stage for a dramatic finale that kept the fans cheering lustily and the umpire calling time and again for silence.

The two swapped service breaks in the fifth and sixth games and Osuna carried a 5-4 edge into the 10th game

Richardson doublefaulted three times in the crucial game, twice moving Osuna to match point Six straight times, Osuna gained the advantage and with each Richardson rally the pressure mounted

Finally, Richardson broke through Osuna's service in the 17th game with a couple of great passing shots.

Gridiron Names, Also

If someone were to ask you what Connie Mack, Rube Waddell and Christy Mathewson have in common, you would probably answer that all are members of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

You would be right, but they also were involved in one of the first professional football games Professional football has come a long ways since the days these baseball stars traded their baseball flannels for a gridiron uniform.

Little did these future Baseball Hall of Famers know, at the time, that their off-season activities on the football field would be the start of a sport that was to rival baseball for the title of the National Pastime.

Their antics on the football field as paid gridders came in 1902 when Connie Mack, after guiding the Philadelphia Athletics to the American League baseball pennant, decided to try his hand at football

First Pro Champion

Mack made two of his pitchers the football stars with Waddell and Mathewson leading the way Mathewson sparked the team from his fullback slot to a 12-6 win over Pittsburgh and Mack immediately claimed the professional football championship of the United States

This gave Mack a championship team in both professional baseball and football, an accomplishment that so far has eluded even Casey Stengel.

From this early beginning, pro football has grown into a sports monster that captivates football fans every weekend from mid-July when exhibitions start through mid-January when the pro gridders finally put away their bloodied togs for a few months

The National Football League, which opened its 14th season Saturday night with two games and has five more games on tap today, has grown steadily since its beginning

An estimated 317,000 fans will watch the pro gridders knock each other around this weekend. This is an average of slightly more than 15,000 per game which represents a 11,000 attendance increase over the average crowd in 1946.

Season attendance in the NFL went over three million for the first time in 1958 and has not dropped below that figure since

Player Value Also Up

Keeping step right along with the increased attendance each year has been the money value of players.

The first deal between clubs for a professional player was in 1920 when Buffalo purchased Bob Nash from Akron for the now-ridiculous sum of $300. You couldn't even buy the water boy from the Los Angeles Rams for that price today.

Connie Mack really started something 61 years ago and today with professional baseball and pro football competing for the fans' sports dollar in many cities, you couldn't blame baseball officials for wondering if he is in the wrong Hall of Fame

All's Calm in American League

Dodgers, Cards Keep Right On Winning

By Associated Press

The Los Angeles Dodgers clung to their slender 2½-game lead over the pressing St. Louis Cardinals Saturday as both teams scored victories in the tense National League pennant race.

The Dodgers turned back the Phillies 5-1 at Philadelphia, with five-hit pitching of Pete Richert and home runs by Ken McMullen and Tommy Davis. The Cardinals won their 17th game in their last 18 starts with a 3-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves but had to snuff out a ninth-inning Braves' rally to do it.

The Dodgers and Cardinals meet head-on in a three-game series at St. Louis, starting Monday.

Excitement, meanwhile, was drained out of the American League where the New York Yankees clinched their 28th pennant Friday night. The world champions played substitutes against Minnesota's Twins, losing a lackadaisical game, 6-2.

In other National League games the Houston Colts handed the last place New York Mets their third straight shutout loss, 4-0, and extended the Mets' scoreless innings to 33 straight on a four-hit pitching job by Ken Johnson, the San Francisco Giants shelled the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3, and the Cincinnati Reds tallied eight runs in two innings — the third and fourth — in crushing the Chicago Cubs, 8-1.

In the only other American League afternoon game, rookie Willie Horton spoiled a fine pitching performance by Baltimore's Robin Roberts with a two-run homer in the eighth to tie the game and Gus Triandos homered in the 10th for a 3-2 Detroit Tigers' victory over the Orioles.

The Yankees bounced back in the second half of the day-night double bill at Minnesota, trimming the Twins 3-1, as Ralph Terry got his 17th victory.

In other American League night action, the Chicago White Sox whipped Washington 7-5, Boston outslugged Kansas City 7-3 and the Los Angeles Angels edged Cleveland 4-3.

Dick Stuart, ex-Lincoln Chief, hit his 39th and 40th homers for the Red Sox and Bill Monbouquette joined Whitey Ford and Jim Bouton of the Yankees as 20-game winners, although Mobo needed help from Dick Radatz.

Richert was the pitching hero for the Dodgers, turning in his first complete game in more than a year while striking out eight and walking none. The only run off him was a home run by Bobby Wine in the fifth. McMullen's homer sent the Dodgers ahead 1-0 in the fifth and Davis made it 2-0 with a shot into the left field seats in the eighth. Los Angeles put the game away with three more in the ninth.

A fine bit of clutch pitching by Ron Taylor, who relieved Bob Gibson, kept the red-hot Cardinals on the Dodgers' heels.

The Braves cut the Cardinals' lead to 3-2 and had men on first and third in the ninth before Taylor came in to relieve Gibson. Taylor retired Dennis Menke on a foul, struck out Ty Cline and got Frank Bolling to hit into a force.

Football players at Nebraska's two new high schools, Grand Island Class VI and Omaha Beveridge, might ask for extra credits in geography after their maugural seasons.

The Class VI club plays all of its seven games on the road and Beveridge plays host only to Class VI in its schedule.

The Hall County team goes North, East, South and West from its rural base. Henderson, Lexington, Hastings, Norfolk, Spalding and Cedar Rapids are other stops on the fall tour.

The only other school not having a home game is Millard. The Indians have nine appearances on foreign fields.

Sod Spared

Sod in the end zones of a great many high school football fields was spared unnecessary wear and tear in the first week of play.

Seventy teams went scoreless in their openers, despite the fact that much of the pre-season practice time is devoted to the offense.

The biggest bugaboo for the attacking teams in early games is poor timing. Failure of a team to respond as a unit on the starting count prompts penalties and fumbles.

Best assured that the list of teams failing to score will dimmish as the season progresses.

Is Size Essential

The current philosophy in professional baseball is that a youngster must be of above-normal size to make the grade in the majors.

There is evidence to back up that contention on every major league roster.

But the Kansas City Athletics are gambling that size won't count in the case of Grand Island's Alan Brown.

The A's signed the 5-7, 145-pound hurler to a bonus pact. The hard-throwing righthander compiled an impressive mark in three seasons on the Grand Island Junior Legion squad.

He pitched 250 innings in three seasons, registering 462 strikeouts and a 29-4 record. His earned run average was under 1.00 in each season.

His most notable achievement came early in the 1962 season when he struck out 27 Kearney batters in a nine inning game.

Several major league clubs lost interest in him because of his size, but the Athletics and Nebraskans are hoping he can make the grade and join that small list of native sons who have major league status.

Not All Big Fish Escape

By PETE CZURA

When the Nebraska Game Commission came out with a new and revised list of state angling records recently, it proved anyone wetting a line in this state can come up with a state record.

Two of the newest records made this year are a lunker blue catfish of 67½ lbs. and a hefty fresh-water drum of 23 lbs.

The big drum was nabbed by Robert D. Bennet, Omaha at Carter Lake, and the blue cat was landed by Jack Jones of Wynot.

According to Glen Foster, chief of Fishery division, any angler making an outstanding catch should report it either to his local Conservation Officer or forward data to the Game Commission in Lincoln.

To be officially recognized, the angler must send in a notarized affidavit signed by two witnesses, giving weight of fish, girth, length, where and how it was taken.

Or, fisherman can have fish checked by Conservation Officer, obtain his signature, and forward this information to the Game Commission.

If you should latch onto what you consider might be a record fish, here is the current list of Nebraska record fish caught by hook and line. Save the box score and compare it with your catches in the future.

White Sox Buy Four Players, Release Score

Washington (AP)— The Chicago White Sox announced the acquisition of four players from their farm clubs at Indianapolis and Lynchburg, Va., Saturday.

At the same time they announced the outright release of pitcher Herb Score to the Indianapolis club, to which he has been assigned for the last two years. Score, a one-time Cleveland star pitcher, was acquired by Chicago in 1960 after he had been hit in the eye and seriously injured by a line drive.

Three of the four new acquisitions were purchased from the Indianapolis Indians. They are infielder Don Buford, the International League's batting champion with a .336 average; outfielder Gene Stephens, hitting .304; and pitcher Fritz Ackley, who compiled an 18-5 record and a 2.80 earned run average with the Indians.

From the Lynchburg club of the South Atlantic League, the White Sox purchased pitcher Fred Talbot. They also recalled from Lynchburg outfielder Brian McCall.

With Proper Care That Mantel Piece Can Last Forever

If you think you've cornered a prize antelope or deer this season and you'd like to ogle him every day on your mantel, you might get a little advice from your taxidermist.

Many of the animals, taxidermists say are ruined before they get a chance to work on them.

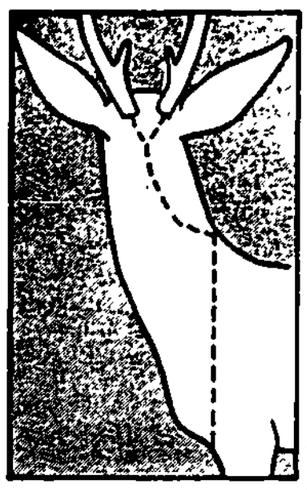
Here are some other suggestions:

—If the animal must be bled make as small a hole as possible and as low on the neck as possible.

—To skin out the cape, split the skin up the middle of one shoulder to the back bone. From this point, cut forward along the back of the neck to a point between the ears, then to the right and to the left to base of antlers. Turn the animal over and cut down the middle of the other shoulder and across the brisket to join the first cut.

—Remove the skin, starting at the shoulders and going forward to the head.



—If you are not an experienced skinner, leave the skull in place, detaching it at the end of the backbone.

Operation Outdoors

by Pete Czura

Since the ladies have been harpooning the hunters recently, another person, interested in fair play, decided to add his own comments concerning "Sportsmanship".

Rev. Lewis Perry of Lincoln says, "Whether Mrs. O'Brien thinks so or not, I consider myself a sportsman.

"I enjoy my hunting and fishing as much as anyone, and I also have been a farmer. So I feel I can look at both sides of the picture.

"It is really illogical," continued Rev. Perry, "to put all hunters into one category, and say they are all bad.

Should They Be Banned?

"Two years ago, my brother was killed in an auto accident.

"This accident was caused by two careless farmers towing a pickup truck which came unhitched and swerved into the path of my brother's car, killing him instantly.

"But I know this blame cannot be placed upon all farmers.

To sum it up, I think, both farmers and sportsmen should 'Do onto others as ye would have others do onto you'."

Rev. Perry hit the nail right on the head with his fair but accurate comments.

Fight To Save America

Paul A. Herbert, president of the National Wildlife Federation, says our nation rests on many mighty pillars but without natural resources, we would crumble and fall

He claims waste, greed, carelessness, and mismanagement are attacking us every day of every year in every state of the Union.

A stream polluted by greed . . . a bird or animal species forever lost through mismanagement . . . a forest wiped out by a careless fire . . . a wildlife sanctuary or National Monument swept away by wasteful disregard . . . daily evidences of the strength of these Four Horsemen.

We Stand Defenseless

Herbert says, we stand almost defenseless with our front line troops dangerously thin and hopelessly outnumbered.

Our enemies use Public Indifference like a club.

You as an American, care about this destruction to our natural resources, but you'll only fight when you know the facts.

Sound the Battle Cry!

We're asking you to pitch in . . . support campaigns which will preserve our wilderness areas . . . and your collective voices are the only things that can do the job.

For some time, the Wilderness Bill has been collecting dust in the U.S. House of Representatives. Vested groups, who would like to grab off these wilderness areas for personal gain, have bottled up the Bill and prevented it from coming onto the floor for a vote.

Send a card or letter to our Congressmen and tell them how you feel about this. Better do it quick, else the Bill will die again as it did last year!

Holland Hunting Costly

The Netherlands — Sportsmen pay a great deal for the privilege of hunting in this tiny European county, M. O. Steen, Game Commission director who is on a Nebraska promotion tour of Europe, reports.

No one in Holland may hunt unless he can meet stringent requirements, Steen noted. Hopeful hunters must have 80 acres of land (in one piece) owned or leased and must then buy a hunting permit, which costs 75 guilders.

That is $21 when converted to American money, Steen pointed out. "But a guilder means about as much to a Dutchman, and takes about as much work to earn, as a dollar in the United States and to our own people," he said.

Finally, Steen observed, those who enjoy better hunting raise and release their own game on their own land, although there are limited populations of pheasants, hare, partridge, and ducks in the wild.

Early Bird Hunter Paid $129 for Birds

It cost an impatient hunter $129 last week to learn the pheasant season does not open until Oct. 26. His arrest was included in the latest report of the Game Commission's conservation officers.

Eugene R. Patzel, Newman Grove, was nabbed taking birds in closed season. He was fined $25, $4 costs, and $100 liquidated damages. Four pheasants were confiscated.

Fishing without permit: Shirley Basset, Arnold; Raymond H Bean, Omaha; Deloris E. Campbell, Falls City; Larry L Eisenhauer, 17, Columbus, and Patrick J Ileno, Omaha, each $10 and costs. Clifford Meyer, North Platte, $20 and costs.

Nonresident fishing on resident permit: Joe A Wafford, Indianapolis, Ind., $10 and costs.

Operating motorboat without valid registration: Jack M Stone, Lincoln, $10 and costs

Operating motorboat after sunset without lights: Jackie W. Alvis, Omaha; Burdell J. Hammel, Omaha, and Duane Reed, Osmond, each $10 and costs.

Littering: Fonda Owens, Omaha, and Edwin L. Owens, Omaha, both $10 and costs.

Operating motorboat with insufficient life preservers: James F. Underwood, Norton, Kan.; John P. Camping, Denver, Colo.; Maynard D. Dillon, Crofton; Donald J. Heideman, Plymouth; Edward J. McCorville, North Loup, and Victor Sinva, Rushville, each $10 and costs.

Retains game fish while netting for bait: John Kildau Jr., Lincoln, $10 and costs.

Several Lakes Opened to Boats

Several lakes have been opened to motorboats after certain changes were made in Nebraska boating regulations following a recent public hearing, according to the Game Commission.

Swan Lake in Holt County has been opened to all boats, including motorboats regardless of horsepower, M. O. Steen, Commission director, said.

On six other lakes motorboats may be used only for fishing. Speed in excess of five miles per hour is prohibited and speed of all vessels must be reduced so that wash and wake will cause no discomfort, hazard, injury, or damage to persons, vessels, or property upon any or all portions of these six lakes.

The lakes include Long Lake in Brown County, Rat and Shell lakes in Cherry County, Smith Lake in Sheridan County, Grove Lake in Antelope County, and Burchard Lake in Pawnee County.

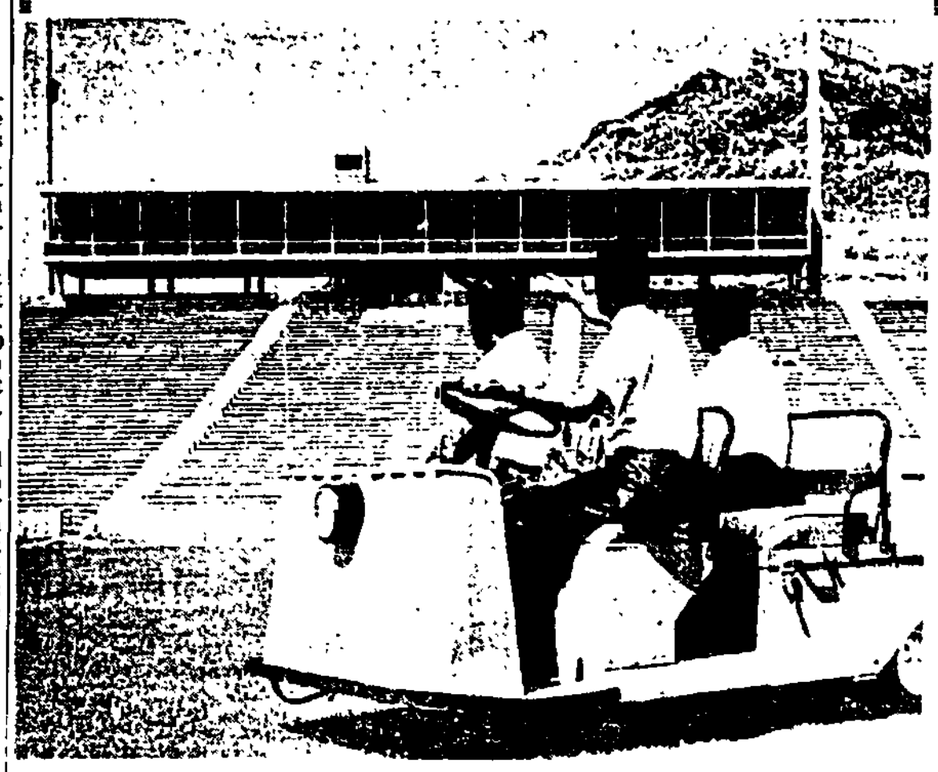
Stadium Workhorse



The electric powered carts, manufactured in Lincoln, are being put to a new use in Arizona. Any disabled person can be driven up a ramp to his seat in the cart. Officials at Tempe said they taxied 522 persons to their seats last year. The carts are common around universities, carrying equipment to and from the field as well as injured players.

Deer Checking Station Moved

Successful deer hunters, both rifle and archery, in Sarpy County are requested to check their deer kill at the Police Station rather than the residence of the Police Chief, according to the Game Commission.

The listing of deer check stations, which was mailed to deer hunters, shows the check station operator and location as Warren Robinson, 2309 Hancock, Bellevue, Nebr. The address should be the Police Station rather than the home address.

Chip on Fly

Salina, Kan. (AP) — Golfer Pat Graham, 14, can't claim a hole-in-one but he achieved something more unusual. Playing in a three-some on the Salina links, Pat hit a chip shot 50 yards from the hole. The ball went in the cup without touching ground and stayed there.

Kearney . . . Past and Present

Story of Boom, Collapse, Slow ReGrowth Chronicled

Kearney of 1885 Ugly, Hot, Unsocial

Kearney — It was 1888. The city of Kearney was 15 years old, and the first issue of the Kearney Daily Hub was on sale.

To commemorate its 75th anniversary, the Hub Publishing Co. chronicled the history of Kearney between then and now in a special anniversary edition last week.

Kearney Junction was founded in 1872 when the Burlington Railroad joined up with the Union Pacific there. The population in 1888 had grown from less than 300 and was to continue to grow to nearly 10,000 before the end of the boom.

Boating on Kearney Canal near the Country Club in 1923.

In 1888, a paper manufacturing plant was scheduled for construction, the machinery for a canning and pickle works was on its way and a packing house was under construction.

Already built were a cotton mill, flour mill, a large canning factory, a $140,000 opera house and several business establishments.

Railroad Responsible

The reason for it all was the railroad. Kearney, just a hamlet in 1866, was bypassed in the Union Pacific's great drive West, but in 1871 an agent for the Burlington Railroad purchased 1,473 acres of land, including the present site of the city.

By 1872 the Union Pacific had bought half the town lots and Kearney Junction became a reality. One year later the city of Kearney was incorporated with a population of about 300.

The name Kearney was taken from nearby Fort Kearny and Gen. Stephen Kearny after suggestions of Midway City, Inter Ocean and Permanence were refused.

During the boom years the optimistic residents of Kearney sought to have the nation's capital located there, since it is halfway between the east and west coasts — 1,733 miles from both Boston and San Francisco. Another attempt was made to locate the Nebraska capital there.

Dream Faded

But the dreams faded when the boom ended in the early 1890s. Kearney was in the midst of a financial panic in a drought in 1894. Residents poured out of the city, the cotton mill closed, real estate values collapsed. The one-time population of 10,000 dwindled to 5,634 by 1900.

In the new century Kearney's growth was steady, but not dramatic. By 1930 it had 8,575. By 1950 it was up to 12,106 and in 1958 the population was over 15,000.

Kearney's opera house, built in 1891 at the southeast corner of Central Ave. and 21st St., stood as a symbol of the city's golden era until its demolition in 1954.

The theater opened in Kearney's heydey, when the city had a water system, gas plant and electric street railway far ahead of cities of comparable size.

Great Names

The old opera house saw just about everything — the Flora Dora girls of the 90s, temperance lectures of Carrie Nation and the oratory of William Jennings Bryan.

One of the principal actors behind the boom was the Kearney Canal, used now to water 4,200 acres of farmland. It holds the primary water rights in the state and has figured indirectly in all state power and irrigation district planning.

In 1883 the Kearney Canal Co. was organized and construction began. But, it was halted in the summer of 1883 for lack of funds with 13 miles of the eventual 16 already dug.

Work was completed in 1885 at a final cost of nearly $500,000. The original estily included in the project was a water-wheeled power house and a pair of turbine wheels which spurred the industrial boom.

Cotton Mill

Another highlight of the boom was the securing of the Kearney Cotton Mill Co. after several prominent Kearney businessmen interviewed the operators of cotton mills in the spring of 1888.

They returned to Kearney with the report that the cotton mill could be secured if the city raised a subsidy of $250,000 in cash and realty.

Operations began in 1890, and at the time, it was the largest manufacturing plant in the state. Its opening was heralded across the nation because it was the first cotton mill west of the Mississippi River.

The mill had 25,000 spindles and was considered at that time the best equipped mill in the country. Employes numbered 450 at the peak of production. Power was supplied from the Kearney Canal and by coal during the winter months when the canal was frozen.

Kearney's history of boom, fall and slow, steady growth has brought it from a hamlet to a metropolis and back to a small city. It has, though, come a long way since it was described as ugly, hot and "totally unorganized socially" by a young lady in 1885.

Blizzard Club Reviews Big Storm of 1888

At a semiannual meeting of the Blizzard Club of 1888, Dr. John B. White, librarian of the State Historical Society, told the 80 members that three unusual factors made the blizzard a remarkable natural occurance.

"The storm was remarkable because of the mass of air that moved at 45-mile-per-hour gales, the temperature dropped rapidly and the winds whipped up encrusted ice particles," he said.

Dr. White pointed out that the temperature in Valentine on Jan. 12, 1888 was 30 above at 6 a.m. By 2 p.m. it had dropped to 6 below and by early evening, to 35 below.

"Within a few hours the cold invaded the whole country, causing water pipes to freeze in San Francisco.

Another unusual aspect of the storm was that it struck in the day time, when children were at school and fathers at their place of business. This made it dangerous for people to get to their homes, Dr. White said.

Other speakers at the meeting were William Enslin of Lincoln, Mrs. Clements of Chadron, Ed S. Marks of Omaha, W. H. Borcherding of Omaha and Raymond Dale of Lincoln.

The Blizzard Club approved a motion that it continue to hold semiannual meetings. The group usually holds only an annual meeting on January 12th. Because the 12th falls on a Sunday, the 1964 meeting was scheduled for January 11th.

Stock Show To Set Record

Omaha — Ak-Sar-Ben's junior livestock show, which opens Friday, will surpass all records for number of exhibitors and livestock, despite the fact that competition has been dropped for pens-of-five steers and heifers.

J. L. Thurmond, chairman of the show committee, says there will be 1,474 exhibitors from the 4-H and FFA ranks. This surpasses last year when there were 1,337 youngsters. The livestock count reached 2,671. There were 2,405 entered in similar classes in 1962.

In spite of the drought prevailing in this part of the state, the condition of the cattle is excellent. Seldom will you see so many uniform, good rumped, nice uddered young cows in one herd. All of them bred and raised on this farm and all sired by Carnation bulls with production records of over 1000 lbs. F., 20,000 lbs. M. This will be one of the outstanding offerings of grade cows, open and bred heifers to be sold in Nebraska this year.
